River Valley Study Group

The R. V. S. Group, met June 20th, at Mrs. John Kane's with a good attendance.

The President opened the meeting with hymn 245, "The Great Physician Now is Near", and prayer.

The minutes were read by Mrs. Sager who acted as Secretary, in the absence of the Secretary, Mrs. Roy Bush.

A letter from Mrs. Bush, thanking the group for cards and letters sent her during her recent illness in Belleville hospital, was read.

The "Everyday Cards", were distributed and paid for. All secretaries present gave good reports.

The President took charge of a good program, carefully prepared by Miss Flossie Rosebush. Hymn 240, "O God, our Help in Ages Past" was sung and a prayer for Childhood was offered by Mrs. Alex Bush.

The great central thought is God's Love to the whole world, manifested in his son, Our Lord Jesus Christ. This was brought out by questions by the leader and answers by our members.

The Roll Call was answered by each member repeating two gems of thought. Mrs. Ross Bush read two verses of hymn 201. A good reading, "The Source of a Happy New Year", was given by Mrs. Hanna.

The last chapter of the Study Book is to be read by every member, who will give extracts from it at the Sept. meeting. "House of Two Much Trouble", was read by Eleanor Bush. "Narcissus", was played by Mrs. Geo. Heasman. A reading, "Watch Yourself Go By", was given by Mrs. Vanderwater; "Sweet Bye and Bye" was played by Eleanor Bush.

It was moved by Mrs. Alex Bush and seconded by Mrs. Heasman that the new Study Book, "Spotlight on Africa", be sent for. Carried.

Arrangements were made for the July meeting to be held July 18th, in River Valley school house, when Stirling W. M. S. furnishes the program, and the group serves lunch.

One verse of hymn 146 and the Mizpah benediction closed a very interesting meeting. Collection $1.60.

Mrs. Kane served a dainty lunch and the social half-hour was much enjoyed.

We do not wish to miss these "comings and goings," but if someone doesn't tell us, how are we to know? May we count on your co-operation?

MAGAZINES FOR MEN ON SEA

● An appeal has been made by the Navy League of Canada, Ontario Division, for magazines for the men of the merchant marine, and the navy.

"Not only must we meet calls from merchant ships, but soon ships of the Royal Canadian Navy operating in the Pacific will be needing their full complement of magazines", it was pointed out. "In these next two months we must build up a back-log of several hundred thousand magazines so that we can go into action when the calls from men in the Pacific start in earnest."

Those going on holidays are urged to clear out all their magazines before they leave and to send the magazines they buy while they are away to the nearest station of the British American or Crown Dominion Oil companies or to the nearest branch of the Navy League. Magazines of 1943-4-5, digests and geographics of any year, and games and playing cards are all needed.

"SCHOOL'S OUT"

● For several million Canadian children this is an important time of the year. School's out—everywhere, and the long Summer vacation has begun.

Much criticism has been levelled lately at our school system. It is charged with not fitting the children to find jobs when they are through school. Without stopping to debate the question whether or not that is the prime purpose of any school except a farm or trade school let us look at another side of the picture. What do our children definitely get out of their schools besides book learning.

It seems pretty clear that they get a social outlook on life as a whole which the unfortunate children of the rich, educated by private tutors or in "select" private schools never get. In the give-and-take of association with children of their own age, of all social and economic strata, it is a stupid youngster indeed who does not learn that human nature is the same whether one's father is a banker or a bootblack. In the public school every child finds his or her own level, regardless of pedigree. And that is probably the most valuable education the children of a democracy can have.

CUT THOSE WEEDS

● Now is the time to make a clean-up of the noxious weeds. Under the provisions of the weed Control Act, all noxious weeds must be destroyed as often as it is necessary to prevent the seed maturing. If the owners of property do not cut the weeds, the municipalities have the right to have them cut and charge the cost of the work against the respective properties.

The streets committee of the Village Council arranges to have the weeds along the streets cut and the citizens should follow their example. The same applies to the surrounding rural parts. What undoubtedly constitutes a menace to those farmers who are making an honest effort to keep their farms clean is the crop of weeds found on vacant lots and roadsides and on neighbouring farms, whose owners are careless about such things. Everyone should co-operate and do his bit in the war against weeds.

DON'T FEAR TO PRAISE

● How is it that words of praise are so grudgingly spoken, and so few persons are found in the retail trade of that desirable commodity?

Fault-finders are everywhere. You run against them at each street corner. They are as plentiful as thorns on a rosebush, and quite as disagreeable to come in contact with. Bloodletting and leaving a scar seems to be their chief vocation in life; and their greatest joy is found in pointing out the typographical error in the paper, or in directing the attention of the audience to the false notes in the songs or the ungrammatical expressions in the speaker's language.

It is only by praise that the best can be procured from a man. An ounce of praise will produce better results than a pound of blame. Many a boy would have become a brilliant success in life had a word of praise been given at the proper time.

A WARNING TO BICYCLISTS

● In these days when so many use bicycles as a means of getting about it is well to have attention called to the same safeguards which regulate motor traffic, because the same rules apply. For the guidance of bicyclists the following safety suggestions are given out by the Ontario Motor League:

1. DON'T ride more than two abreast at any time, and keep in single file in city traffic.
2. DON'T change direction suddenly.
3. DON'T ride closely behind a motor vehicle. It may stop unexpectedly.
4. KEEP your hands on the handlebars.
5. DON'T pass motor vehicles on the wrong side.
6. DON'T attempt to ride up steep hills.
7. KEEP a close watch on street intersections and turn corners slowly.
8. GIVE signals before making left turns, and make right turns close to the curb.

In addition the League has the following to say in general about cycling, particularly as it applies to the problems of motorists:

"Bicyclists should bear in mind that the bicycle is classed in the Highway Traffic Act as a vehicle and subject to the general rules and regulations applicable to vehicles.

"Bicyclists, therefore, are required to observe stop regulations, traffic lights, the right of way rule at intersections and all the other rules of the road that govern vehicles generally.

"Bicycles must carry lights or reflectors, as specified in the Highway Traffic Act, and must have a white surface on the back not less than ten inches in length and two inches in width, so placed as to be clearly visible to drivers of other vehicles. This is exceedingly important from the standpoint of safety."

● With the haying season now in full swing the demand for commando farm labor is heavy. Several of the local citizens are helping out their farmer friends and their assistance is greatly appreciated.

● We should have politicians in Canada who are clever enough to expose for all to behold the humbug in the statement that any government, Russian, or otherwise, can provide people with social security. Actually any so-called security that is given is provided by the sweat and toil of the people themselves. Instead of political parties promising people social security if elected to power they should be promising that they will do everything possible to enable them to provide their own security.—Canadian Countryman.

EXPERIMENTER

Fletcher Markle, author of "Baker's Dozen"; radio experimenter, and the British documentary film "V.I." has written a 13-week series as summer successor to "Stage 45." Entitled "Radio Folio," the series will be directed by Mr. Markle, and the opening date is Sunday, July 8, at 9.00 p.m. EDT, 10.00 p.m. ADT, over the Trans-Canada network.

"But when summer comes around, I do O.K., I admit I am not as fast as I was 30 years ago, but I still do a really nice five miles.

"Two or three times a week I run from Marcellus to Camillus and return, a distance of 11 miles. I no longer run up the Camillus hills, as I used to do. I don't race on grades like that and the strain is a bit too much for me now.

"I have markers out on my 11-mile course at each mile and to those who think I have slipped a lot with age, I'll say I still do 10 miles under an hour.

"Right now I am doing the 10 in 58 1-2 minutes. Maybe I can speed it up to 57 in the next two or three weeks. I used to do it in 55 but I don't think I'll ever go that fast again.

"I'll give any man within 10 years of my age a big handicap in a five-mile race. I'll race any man, regardless of age, five miles, and give him a battle."—Almonte Gazette.

THE ROMANS HAD INFLATION

If you do not believe that there is danger of inflation in Canada, you should examine some Roman coins from the fourth century, B.C., to the fourth century A.D. They are on view in the Royal Ontario Museum. At first the unit, an As, weighed a Roman pound. It was cast in copper 2 1-2 inches in diameter and yet even such a gigantic coin could buy only little and at the highest was worth only 1,200 to the pound of gold. Imagine how many huge wagons had to follow the army, just to carry the soldiers' pay! In the days of Caesar, the workmen's normal wage (about sixteen cents a day) would barely buy a pound of pork. From then on the price of meat and bread rose rapidly. By the third century A.D. one pound of pork cost, in terms of the original gold standard, some 416 times what it had in the days of Caesar and by the reign of Constantine, 1440 times its earlier value. This inflation may be seen graphically in the change from the fat coppers to the good solid silver, then through the silver coins growing rapidly thinner and more diluted to the shabby coins of the 4th century A.D., paper thin, of base metal, no longer even pretending to be silver, of which we have a hoard of over 6,700 coins, the total value of which would be worth only about one-quarter of a pound of gold.

From distant centuries comes a timely warning for us to-day.

AMERICAN TOURISTS ALLOWED 16 GALS. GASOLINE

Canadian tourists travelling in the United States are now allowed twenty American gallons of gasoline in coupons of ten gallons each, the Buffalo Rationing Office has announced. This amount is five gals. in excess of that formerly allowed Canadian travellers. There is no present indication of any change being made during the next three weeks of the sixteen gallons allotted by Canadian authorities to American tourists travelling in Canada.

Maybe, now, you'd like a Tractor...

Queenie and Dobbin have done a fine job and their useful day is not yet past.

But maybe you want to speed up your farm operations with tractor ploughing, cultivating, seeding and harvesting.

Maybe you want to do many things for the improvement of your farm . . . repair your barn or build a new one, fix up the fencing or drainage, buy a new bull to build up the quality of your herd, install an electric system or improve the present one.

And what about seed, feed and fertilizer? What about your livestock? All these things need money—more money, probably, than your bank balance will allow. If that's the case with you, call on the manager of our local office and discuss, in confidence, your financial needs. You will like the kind of consideration he will give your plans and problems.

What Others Say!

LOSS IN PIGS

When a farmer saves every possible pig farrowed, he saves a lot of food. Each pig born dead represents a loss of about 140 pounds of food. A pig that dies at weaning time, when about 10 weeks old, costs an additional 120 pounds of food, and a pig that dies after being finished for market involves a loss of 990 pounds—almost half a ton.—Fort William Times Journal.

THE POST-WAR NAVY

We will not need to maintain the present force of hundreds of ships and a personnel of over 90,000. But we will need half a dozen aircraft or escort carriers, as many cruisers for escorts, twice as many destroyers, and a number of frigates and corvettes which can be thrown in for convoy work should the need arise. On that basis we probably would have to maintain a naval force of upwards of 20,000 men.

ELECTION PROMISES

As the number of parties in an election increases, so do the promises, and, as the parties compete in the number of promises made, so do they also in pledging themselves to play Santa Claus to a credulous people.

The citizens of Ontario, who have just endured two elections, were showered with promises, some of which were magnificent but empty as a vacuum. One could smile and forget them, but they still carry the significant and sad implication that a pretty good percentage of the candidates didn't even know that many of the promises couldn't be fulfilled.—The Farmer's Advocate.

ACCEPTING DEFEAT

There is much to be said for being able to accept defeat like a gentleman, or, if you prefer the expression, like a sportsman. It is a mark of civilization to possess enough magnanimity to be able to take a reverse graciously, without losing face or temper; it is well never to go so far in political dispute that it is impossible to shake hands with the opponent when the dispute is resolved.—Peterborough Examiner.

ALMONTE RUNNER, 73 YEARS STILL COVERS 11-MILE COURSE

John L. Sullivan, 73-year-old marvel of the athletic world, is running again, making his way over his own special 11-mile course, from Marcellus to Camillus, twice a week, and taking a three-mile jog every day.

John's objective is a five-mile race at the annual Firemen's Day celebration in Marcellus, July 4, when he will race against one or more able foes.

Sullivan, born Oct. 10, 1871, in the town of Almonte, Ont., is one of Ontario's county's most active men. He works full time, as a weaver in the Marcellus Upper Crown Mills, does a bit of wood chopping and other chores about his home, and daily in fair weather, does some running.

"It may be the signs of age but I don't like to run in the snow and cold any more," John L. said.

NEWS FOR THE BUSY FARMER

DAIRY PRODUCTS UP

During the first quarter of 1945, dairy production was encouraging. The production of eight million pounds more of creamery butter to the end of March at 36.5 million pounds was 1.6 per cent greater than in the corresponding period of 1944. Cheese was higher by 4.8 per cent. The manufacturing of almost all concentrated milk products reached higher levels in 1945 and indications are that fluid sales to consumers were also higher. The improvement in the production of butter, together with restricted consumption following periodic cuts in the ration, has brought about an improvement in butter supply and requirement position.

WATER VERSUS AIR IN COOLING MILK

If a can of warm milk is placed in a refrigerated room where the air temperature is at freezing point, it will take 12 hours before the temperature of the milk has fallen to 50 degrees F. That is because air absorbs heat very slowly. Water absorbs heat much more quickly than air. Because in cooling milk with water, the larger the volume of water and the lower its temperature, the more quickly the milk will be cooled. Cooling is more rapid when either the milk or the water or both are kept in motion. The value of stirring the milk is a matter of commonplace knowledge on the farm, but the idea that equally good results may be obtained by stirring the water is not so well known. In stirring milk, however, there is a risk of adding bacteria if the stirring rods are not thoroughly washed and sterilized. The better method, therefore, is to stir the water by means of a propeller driven by a small windmill or by an electric motor.

CREEP FEEDING FOR YOUNG PIGS

Pigs given access to a grain mixture prior to weaning time suffer little in the way of a set-back when weaned, says C. H. Anderson, Supervisor of Illustration Stations, Beaverlodge, Alta. At the Station all small pigs are creep fed as soon as they show interest in whole food, usually at from two to three weeks of age.

A creep may be erected in a corner of the pen, leaving an opening of such size that the young pigs can run in and out, while the sow is excluded. If a sow's pen is not large enough to permit the erection of a creep some arrangement should be made to let the little pigs run out into the alleyway so that they may be fed the grain mixture in a small trough out of reach of the sow.

The mixture fed at the Station is one part coarsely ground wheat with 2 parts oat chop (hulls removed). If hullless oats are available they may be used to advantage. If shorts is available equal parts of it may be fed with sifted or hullless oat chop. Shorts is valuable because of the low fibre content. A protein-mineral supplement will prove a valuable addition to the grains in order to promote good growth in the young pigs.

Besides inducing nursing pigs to feed early and thereby reducing the set-back usually experienced at weaning time, the drain on the sow's system is reduced, resulting in greater uniformity within the litter and lessened mortality. Creep feeding is well worth any extra work it may entail.

PROSO MILLET AS EMERGENCY FEED

Millets, particularly the early proso types, are excellent emergency or supplementary grain crops. Frequently when oat or barley crops fail and a feed shortage is indicated, a proso millet such as Crown (a Canadian variety produced by the Dominion Experimental Farms Service) can be seeded as late as the first week in July and yields up to 35 bushels of grain obtained. The seed of both the proso and foxtail millets is well suited to livestock feeding, particularly if it is ground and used with the regular protein supplements. It has a composition similar to oats and is almost equal to barley in feeding value.

The varieties of millet grown in Eastern Canada may be divided into two general groups—hay millets and grain millets. Hay millets include the foxtail types, and also Japanese millet which is neither foxtail nor grain but is related to barnyard grass. The foxtail millets are characterized by erect, slender stems which grow from 2½ to 5 feet in height and bear broad flat leaves. The seeds are borne in a rather dense cylindrical spike.

The grain millets, generally called proso or broom corn millets, are distinguished from the foxtail millets by having a panicle type head. Proso has coarse stems and is not as leafy as the foxtail. The stems are from 2 to 5 feet high. The seed is larger and is not as tightly held as in the foxtail millets.

POULTRY PRICE LEVEL

The highest price level at which hens may be sold has been extended this year from June 30 to July 31 by the W.P.T.B. Under a previous order the price would have dropped 2½ cents per lb. on July 1, but to help maintain the highest egg production, particularly as most of the flocks are in good laying condition owing to the comparatively cool weather, the drop in the highest price level will not take place until August 1.

Significant Signs

One of the most amazing developments throughout this country is the "orgy of buying", following in the wake of "wild rumours" of possible shortages and changes in the wartime supplies as well as regulations, with the authorities along Parliament Hill being quite concerned about these activities, though this fact has not been properly publicized in dispatches from Ottawa at the present time. Somehow or other a "wild rumour" seems to start amongst the masses and soon it appears to spread with startling rapidity, causing buying activities or demands which are completely unwarranted. There was a "wild rumour" about laundry soap and an "orgy of buying" of this soap produced a severe shortage in some areas. The truth is that rosin was short in supply in the United States due to temporary labor troubles and this, being used in the manufacture of laundry soap, created a shortage. There was a "wild rumour" about potatoes and the demand for potatoes became completely out of tune with normal requirements at this time of year, though in reality the backward spring in Canada kept the usual supplies down of old potatoes and a temporary delay of supplies of new potatoes from the United States contributed to the shortage. There was a "wild rumour" about cotton shirts but the truth is that this was due mainly to production difficulties as well as unusually large demands. In face of all "wild rumours" about meat, yet the best information in Ottawa seems to show that there has never been any "mystery" about meat supplies and demands, with the suspension of rationing on March 1, 1944, having been always emphasized as a purely temporary arrangement due to shipping obstacles. Now, increasing demands at home and abroad and decreasing supplies or marketings are causing conditions not unexpected a long time ago. There has been a "wild rumour" on gasoline but no immediate action of any drastic nature is contemplated to remove this restriction until at least the end of this summer at the earliest date. There have been many "wild rumours" about the revision or removal of wartime taxes but it can be hinted in this column, that these will be coming much slower and in much smaller measures than suggested in popular stories circulating at this moment, with the whole plan of such revisions or removals of taxes being under careful study in the capital at this moment by officialdom. Indeed, there would be no surprise in well-informed quarters in Ottawa if such wartime taxes are not brought downward rapidly on account of financial commitments of the Government in immediate postwar plans "for creating a better country for the people to live in", using an expression employed to this veteran observer by one qualified to offer a view on this subject.

It Has Happened Previously
As a result of the defeat in the last general elections of Premier King, there is considerable doubt in the minds of many people how the head of the Government can carry on his official tasks without being even a Member of Parliament, with this being stressed in particular now that Parliament has been indicated as meeting towards the end of August. However, it must be pointed out that, even if Premier would not be elected to Parliament when it would meet, it can continue its work. In fact, in 1925, Premier King was also defeated in the general election of that year in the North York constituency, though his party came to power, so that he carried on as head until he was elected in a by-election in the second month of the following year, with the Parliament meeting at least a month before that by-election and it operated under the leadership of the late Rt. Hon. Ernest Lapointe on behalf of the Government and then Premier King took over control after being returned in the by-election.

Interest in British Elections

There is unusual interest along Parliament Hill in the general elections of the United Kingdom for a number of reasons, especially since there has been no such test of public opinion in the Motherland for a long period. Moreover, at least seven prominent candidates in that campaign were native Canadians, including the two sons of Lord Beaverbrook, Captain E. H. C. Leather, a graduate of Kingston Military College, Wing Commander Huntley M. Sinclair, who needs no introduction in Ottawa, Beverley Baxter, a well-known writer formerly from Canada, Bartle Bull, and Sir Peter Macdonald.

Demand for Labor

Notwithstanding all other events along Parliament Hill, yet it must be reported at this time that employment holds the spotlight of attention in this transition gradually from wartime to peacetime economy. Therefore, it is expressive in an eminent degree to report that, it is held in Ottawa, Canada's labor needs are still quite impressive, especially in certain directions, such as construction work, lumbering or logging, mining, agriculture, and, elsewhere, revealing a labor shortage still in existence.

Formal and Informal

Canada's association with the world security charter signed at San Francisco by the Canadian delegates has a formal and informal aspect. The formal signing of this historic document, which created an organization of about 50 United Nations, together with such other bodies as the International Court of Justice, had a background of a full legal authorization by His Majesty, King George VI, so that Canada's delegates may sign with the same legal power as if His Majesty had signed these documents as King of Canada. The informal aspect was based on the story in Ottawa that President Truman of the United States had indicated his desire to hold informal talks with Prime Minister Mackenzie King of Canada in the same manner as the heads of the two countries were accustomed to do in recent years when the late President Franklin D. Roosevelt acted for our great neighbour, with the San Francisco Conference having provided an (Continued on Page Six)

"One-Way" Farming for Profit

A striking example of the effectiveness of a machine, in helping farmers operate successfully under difficult conditions, is found in the One-Way Disc. Introduced during the drought spell and period of low prices for farm products, it helped farmers cut down their production costs, thereby leaving them more margin for profit.

It is little wonder then that the One-Way Disc Seeder speedily became one of the most popular machines on the market. Preparing the soil and sowing the seed in one operation, the One-Way Disc Seeder saves time and expense. Used as a tillage machine it destroys weeds and leaves the land in a condition to resist soil drifting. In effect the One-Way Disc offers the usefulness of two machines at little more cost than the price of one.

In design and construction the MASSEY-HARRIS One-Way Disc offers special advantages that appeal to users. The sturdy frame construction, long wear replaceable bearings, patented stone jumper, easily adjusted direct draft hitch, and quick action power lift are features that contribute to the popularity of the MASSEY-HARRIS. Your local dealer will be glad to give you full particulars.

BELL TELEPHONE TO SPEND 10 MILLION IN RURAL EXTENSION

Within three to five years after men and materials again become available, The Bell Telephone Company of Canada plans to spend almost $10,000,000 to extend rural telephone service to some 20,000 more rural dwellings in Ontario and Quebec, according to an article in the current issue of "The Blue Bell," monthly magazine for Bell Telephone employees.

This sum covers reconstruction, the provision of facilities to serve those whose applications have had to be deferred because of wartime shortages and unexpressed demand, and new construction to take care of expected growth beyond present pole lines. It will involve the erection of some 2,600 miles of new pole line and 20,000 additional miles of circuit.

It does not cover the cost of converting rural exchanges to the same system as that in large cities, and other service improvements which will help the company make its contribution to the post war objective of full employment.

Further studies are still being made to find out what people in rural areas think about telephone service and what they want. On this sound basis of fact, still more extensive plans may be developed.

Providing high quality telephone service at a cost the farmer is able to pay is by no means an easy task, the article states. It is estimated that about 80 per cent of all rural families in the Bell Company's territory are located either along existing lines or near enough to them so that service can be provided without a special construction charge. Yet at the present time only 38 per cent of rural dwellings have service. Full advantage is being taken of economical methods of construction introduced before the war, and study is being made of other developments brought to the fore in recent years.

"The remarkable accomplishments of radio telephony in the war have produced many fanciful pictures of the peacetime uses of radio communication," the Blue Bell article says. "However, experiments are now under way to determine the feasibility of providing this type of service to farms located many miles away from the nearest telephone exchange."

In addition to extending the scope of rural service, the Bell Company plans to continue its policy of continued improvement in quality. In the 10 years following the war, it is expected that more than 100 rural exchanges will be converted to dial operation. This will permit the installation of the latest and most efficient types of telephone sets, which will be more convenient to use than the present ones, and will afford clearer transmission.

As materials become available, the number of parties per rural line will be steadily reduced, and the type of ringing provided whereby a subscriber sees the ring for only half of the other parties on his line.

OTTAWA—WEEK BY WEEK

opportunity for the introduction of the same informal method of discussions between the heads of the two nations. Both formal and informal aspects were created several weeks ago, the legal power for Canada's delegates to sign having been granted by His Majesty, King George VI, in April and the expression of a desire for informal talks by President Truman having been indicated some weeks ago, though the culmination of both occurred at the close of the San Francisco Conference.

No Ratification

Extremely heavy publicity has been given to statements in the United States and Canada against some sales campaigns by Canadian gold mining interests and there is an impression along Parliament Hill that such statements of a general nature, often not backed by indisputable facts, may be detrimental in their effects and produce a strong adverse tendency on the part of the investment public against sound, legitimate investments in Canadian mining enterprises, especially in areas where promising finds are suspected to exist and where full operations may be more productive soon with the gradual return to normal of supplies of equipment as well as manpower conditions that were held down by abnormal wartime circumstances in recent years. Then again, it is stressed in well-informed quarters on Parliament Hill that considerable publicity about supposed or alleged wrongdoing by some people in Canada in the sales of securities of this kind in the United States has not mentioned a most important angle and that is that the Treaty for the Extradition of Criminals between the two nations, as signed on April 29th, 1942, has never been ratified by Canada. Until such ratification or approval of this Treaty by Canada's legislators has taken place, much of the comment in the United States was unwarranted. Of course, the reference is to the sections 31 and 32, Article III, of that Treaty wherein it is provided that extradition shall be reciprocally granted for offenses against the laws for the prevention of fraud in the sale or purchase of securities.

Exclusive inquiry by this observer in Ottawa has revealed that this Treaty also provided clearly that "the present Treaty shall be ratified by the high contracting parties in accordance with their respective constitutional methods" and no such ratification has been given by Canada so that adverse comment on Canadian mining enterprises may be taken with a thick grain of salt in many instances.

Weekly Wind-up
A surprisingly large list of world famous characters have been mentioned as on Ottawa's visiting list lately, including Field Marshal Jan Smuts of the Union of South Africa, Lord Cranborne, Secretary of State for the Dominions in the British Cabinet, Prince Regent of Iraq, Dr. T. V. Soong, newly appointed Premier of China, Ex-Empress Zita of Austria-Hungary, and others, with the visit of the last mentioned being stressed in reports as merely "informal and personal".

He:
Come live with me and be my love
And we will all the pleasures prove
That valleys, groves and hills and fields,
Woods or steeply mountain yield.

— Marlowe

She:
If all the world and love were young
And truth in every lover's tongue,
These pretty pleasures might we yield
To live with thee and be thy love.

Hello, Homemaker!

Do you can garden-fresh flavour? Whittle down those hours between garden and jar. The shorter the time taken for the complete process, the better the flavour, texture, colour and vitamin tally. Sound, top-quality, fresh food to work with is a must; canned food is only as good as it was when it went into the jar. Overripe or bruised fruit is not worth your time or jar; it may not even keep.

Are your fruits as clean as a whistle? Pick over and clean fruit under a good light.

Do your jars shine and sparkle? Clean, sterile jars are a necessity to successful canning. Use lots of hot rich suds, a dish mop and a bottle brush. Rinse well in hot water and scald. Discard jars with nicks and cracks.

Are you sure you know the right way to use your jar caps?

Vacuum caps should be turned back 1-4 inch, those with screw bands 1-4 turn. After processing, screw bands should be tightened; the clamp-type secured by lowering the second clamp. Never reuse wartime rubber rings or vacuum-seal lids with rings of rubber compound. Zinc or tin bands which have become hard and dry should also be replaced.

Do you accurately precook (blanch) before packing? A quick precooking shrinks the food and sets the colour, so that each jar contains the optimum amount. If directions read, "Precook 5 minutes in boiling water," it's the signal for you to put food in boiling water, let it return quickly to boil, then begin 5 minute timing. Be accurate. Watch the clock. Do not let food stand around because delays may cause flat-sour.

Do you crowd food into jars? Crowding may interfere with the thorough cooking required for safe-keeping. Crowding may prevent a tight seal. Leave 1-2 inch above fruit to top of jar, but then fill to overflowing with boiling liquid. Do you know how to "burp" the jar? Run a knife down the inside to free air bubbles. Blup, blup — the liquid fills the gaps. After this treatment, fill again to the top with liquid. When using a boiling water bath, do you mount your jars on a rack 1-2 inch from the bottom of the deep kettle with the water covering one inch over their tops? They should stand at least 1-2 inch apart, so that hot water can circulate. Do you keep the water boiling steadily, adding boiling water if necessary?

Do you process for the exact number of minutes? Then dip out some of the water and it will be easier to lift out the finished product. Place the jars on a pad of paper, away from drafts; complete seal and let cool. Label jars and store in a cool, dry place.

Don't depend on the grapevine directions of your neighbours, use an approved timetable.

TIMETABLE FOR CANNING FRUITS

Fruit	Precook	Water Bath
Strawberries ... 5 mins.	5 mins.
Cherries ... 20 mins.	20 mins.
Currents ... 15 mins.	15 mins.
Gooseberries ... 15 mins.	15 mins.
Raspberries ... 20 mins.	20 mins.

If you use an electric oven preheated to 275 deg., allow 10 minutes longer cooking time than the above method. It is a simple and preferred method for those who have this valuable equipment.

THE QUESTION BOX

Mr. W. H. asks: How can we "revive" awnings?

Answer: Repair tears by sewing on underside. Then, refresh by redying in a single colour. Stripes will show slightly, but results will be successful. Or paint with house paint thinned with 1-4 as much turpentine. Apply a thin coat and brush into fibres.

Mrs. J. C. asks: How often should I have to defrost electric refrigerator?

Answer: Always defrost before the frost builds up to 1-4 inch (thickness of pencil). Every two weeks is usually the case in the small home group—once a week if it is used frequently.

Mrs. J. B. suggests: Use paprika instead of pepper these days.

MOLLY'S SON

BY HARRY M. MOORE

A Story of Harness Horse Racing in the Early 1900's
(All Rights Reserved)

CHAPTER III

It was two years after the death of Doc Holmes, who had made his home village known among horsemen and their followers as the best little sports centre in the country.

It was two years after the chestnut mare, Lou Dillon, trotted a mile in 1.53 1-2, and the bay stallion, Dan Patch, did even better behind a wind-shield. It was the year that the same Dan Patch paced a mile in 1.55 1-4, to set a world's record that was not to be beaten until Billy Direct came along some thirty-three years later to lop off that quarter second.

It was 1905. It was late March, after the warm sun and the welcome showers had removed the last vestiges of snow and ice.

Down around the Big Barn on the Holmesville Speedway, there were already many signs of the activity to be. Not a day passed now but saw the arrival of horses and trainers and a retinue of swipes and just plain followers of horses who would later serve as exercise boys.

Horses came by train; horses came on their own feet, breaking the long trip by overnight stops at the various stopping places enroute. They arrived tired and dust covered from far places, but they arrived—scores of them.

The same staff that had manned the Holmesville Speedway set-up from its inception was there to meet them, to make them welcome.

There was Billy Warren, youthful but capable stable boss. It was Billy Warren who saw that the horsemen were given the stalls they preferred. It was Billy Warren who saw that there was hay and grain on hand at all times and who kept up the supplies from the heavy stocks available at the Holmes Estate mill. His two attendants were Hy Lawson and Punk Heffernan, men who could turn their hand to anything from repairing harness to climbing on a jogging cart and giving a willing hand to any horseman who might have more horses on hand than he could handle.

And then there was Doc Brisco. Brought to Holmesville when the buildings were in the course of construction, the veterinary was given his choice of a new residence for himself on the property, or an office with complete living accommodations in the Big Barn. Being foot-loose and fancy-free, he chose the latter, and winter and summer the Big Barn was his office and home.

It was from the Big Barn that he practised his profession and, like all men of that profession, he was on duty day and night. From the outset he had been provided with a driving horse, buggy and cutter, and he was soon to become a familiar sight as he travelled from one end of the district to the other with his brown spaniel Rowdy as his sole companion. There was one thing that Doc Brisco would not do, however, and that was cook his own meals. He ate at the village hotel.

Doc Brisco's quarters in the Big Barn were never lonely. Even in winter, when the snow covered the ground, Billy Warren was around every day. And there were a few of the harder breed of horsemen who lived there all winter and jogged their horses every chance they got, which was often enough, for the big team at the Holmes mill was always available to keep the track open for them.

A genial sort of man with a flair for not always saying what he meant, Doc Brisco soon became a fixture. He was reputed to be the best horse doctor that ever put up a shingle in the Holmesville district. Coming out of a big racing stable in the west, the vet undoubtedly knew his business and when he talked horse it was evident that he knew his subject from every angle.

At first the horsemen didn't know how to take this man. He had the habit of calling race horses "toys", and he would say that if "the good Lord" had made these little critters for racing purposes, He would have provided them with more substantial legs. After a while, however, when the horsemen got better acquainted with their veterinary they learned that he was just doing a bit of spoofing, that he worshipped the very ground that these horses stood and raced on, and that he would go out of his way, day or night, week-day or Sunday, to do everything in his power to alleviate their sufferings, to treat their injuries.

Every foaling where he had been compelled to use physical effort was worse than the last one, according to Doc Brisco, and every foal he was on hand to see come into the world had "the worst set of legs I ever saw." But despite these excusable traits of character, Doc Brisco was soon to measure high in the estimation of those men with whom he had to deal. He was a committee of one to greet the first horsemen who came to the speedway in the spring. He was there with an encouraging word and a slap on the back for every horseman who left in early summer to seek fame and fortune on the big time.

And Doc Brisco rated pretty high in T. B. Telfer's estimation. Brisco was most dependable. For Telfer was a busy man, more so in the spring and toward midsummer, and it was nice to know that there was a head over affairs at the Big Barn at such times as he himself was unavailable; a man who could advise Billy Warren, the stable boss, when he needed advice, and there were such occasions; a man who would guarantee fair treatment to every horseman, regardless of his color, creed or nationality. Meanwhile the blacksmith and his youthful helper, Benny Bannerman, were kept on the jump in the shop. Horsemen thronged the place in the afternoon, since most of their training was done in the early hours of the morning. Horses had to be shod, or shoes had to be weight-differently, or they were just taken off for a check-up, a hundred and one different things to be done, and not one of which, no matter how seemingly unimportant it was, that was not given the close personal attention of this master craftsman.

And Telfer did more than shoe the horses of these men. Their jogging carts, their racing bikes, were always requiring a blacksmith's attention. Over the lily-lit shop in the rear of the building was a store-room filled with wheels and shafts and tires and seats reclaimed from wrecked racing vehicles. There were carts that had been repaired and assembled, but were held for the cost of the work put into them. For Telfer gave credit sparingly, and none at all to strangers.

That particular Saturday afternoon in late March, 1905, Telfer, at his anvil, was putting the toe weights on a pair of light shoes for a trotter when a dust-stained black horse pulled up to his door, a tall driver threw a long leg over the seat, climbed down, unhitched his horse and, with a free hand, pushed the cart to one side out of the way.

He led the animal inside, tied him to a ring in the wall, and approaching Telfer with a shoe in his hand, said, "If you're not too busy, I've a small job for you."

In a nearby corner, Benny Bannerman was clinching the last nail on a set of shoes for a farm mare. He raised his head, gave the blackhorse a casual glance and went on with his work. Having finished, he picked up his tool chest and mopping his perspiring brow with the back of his hand he stepped around behind the stallion.

His mouth opened and closed as his eyes ran up and down the black horse's legs, across his flanks, up his back to his beautifully arched neck and head.

"Holy mackinaw!" he said. "What a horse!"

Over by the anvil Telfer was asking the driver all about himself as an excuse to stick to his job until those toe weights had been set to his satisfaction. Finally, with shoe in hand he followed the stranger across the floor and stopped behind the animal.

Next T. B. ran a hand over the animal's hip, caught his long flowing tail and stepped from side to side as he searched for blemishes. He ended up by walking alongside the animal and standing back with hands on hips.

"I've seen a lot of 'em," he said. "I've shod hundreds of 'em, maybe a thousand of 'em, but mister, that's the prettiest horse I ever saw. What do you call him?"

"Grand Boy," said Patterson the driver. "By King Peter out of Nancy Morgan."

"And a trotter, of course," T. B. said enthusiastically.

"How'd you know that?" grinned Patterson, and T. B. chuckled.

"That was easy. No burns from straps, and he stands like a trotter. No pacer can stand as true as that. If you'd handled as many of 'em as I have, you'd get to noticing things the ordinary person would never see."

"How is he for speed?" this from Benny Bannerman who made it his business to secure the records of all horses coming to the speedway, for his own information of course.

"He's been the mile in fifteen on a half-mile track."

"Fifteen?" Benny doubted. Patterson took a stride across the floor and came back.

"Confidentially, men, between us three, Grand Boy has stepped a mile, on a mile track, mind you, in five. But that's between us. In these days when the gang in the starter's stand is so tough, one has to be careful and not be caught pulling."

"It won't go any further," T. B. said truthfully. "And if what you say is true, and I have no reason to doubt your word, then Grand Boy is not only the prettiest, but the fastest horse that ever set foot on our speedway."

At that moment Doc Brisco's brown spaniel Rowdy darted through the door in search of a luscious piece of hoof, followed in a more leisurely manner by the Doc himself.

"Hey, Doc," Telfer called, "Here's something to warn the cockles of your heart."

Doc Brisco gave the black stallion a glance and said, "What—another toy?" And Patterson's jaws were seen to set.

"Pay no attention to him," T. B. whispered to the horseman. "He likes to cut up like that."

By now the veterinary was up alongside the black stallion, carefully checking his hoofs for defects, running his hands up and down his legs, opening and closing his mouth. He ran a smooth hand over the animal's side and hips and ended by giving the horse a couple of taps with the back of his hand as a sign of complete satisfaction.

"Bill Moran's Molly will never race again," Doc Brisco said, moving away from the stallion and joining the others. "Just got in from the farm a few minutes ago where I did a bit of fancy sewing. Bill's big bay mare planted a shoe in her stifle just about noon while they were in the pasture field, and that's about the end of her."

"Well, that's too bad," said T. B. shaking his head. "I'm really sorry to hear that."

Benny Bannerman, listening to the news with open mouth, felt the blood drain from his face. Half-sick, he turned toward the door. Molly was through; Molly would race no more.

The words pounded on his brain. Why, he had jogged Molly so many miles on the speedway that she had become almost a part of him. He had come to think of her as his very own.

Unobserved, he stepped outside and leaned his back against the wall of the building. Pretty soon the cool air revived him and with purpose in mind and head erect he returned to his work.

An hour after he left the shop for his supper, he was knocking on Bill Moran's front door at his farm a short distance west of the village. And on his lips was a request that no man except a man with a heart of stone could refuse.

And Bill Moran was not that type of man.

Rylstone Factory Prey To Flames

Rylstone cheese factory, 12 miles northwest of this village, and one of the largest producers in this district, was totally destroyed by fire late Saturday evening. Loss is estimated at $25,000.

A landmark on the boundary line of Seymour and Rawdon Townships, the building had recently been equipped with modern machinery and cold storage rooms and was averaging 24 cheese per day for export trade. There were 280 boxes of cheese in the stock room ready for shipment at the time of the out-break.

Cheesemaker Harold Henderson, whose apartment adjoined the factory, lost his household effects and family's belongings. The fire was discovered by Frederick Fry, proprietor of a nearby general store who rescued Wesley Henderson, father of Harold, only occupant of the building at the time, who was ill. With the help of a hastily-formed bucket brigade, Fry managed to save his building, which was only slightly damaged.
Defective wiring is believed to have been the cause of the blaze.

regret to learn that she underwent an her condition is improving.

fog nozzles, etc.

action was taken by council.

park at the corner of Victoria and Edward Streets, to connect with the

Let's Have The News

Vacation season is here, and it brings a steady stream of visitors to the community, while scores of local residents are holidaying at other points from time to time.
Every one of these visitors is a news item of interest to at least some of our readers and we are very anxious to receive these items. Send them in, or bring them in, phone them in, or if you live in the country, let your district correspondent know. We do not wish to miss these "comings and goings," but if someone doesn't tell us, how are we to know? May we count on your cooperation?

Bride And Groom Are Honoured

Mr. and Mrs. Melville Andrus Are Recipients of A Large Number of Fine Gifts

On Friday night about one hundred friends and neighbours gathered at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Percy Jackman, Harold, to honour their daughter, Aileen, and her husband, Melville Andrus, of Peterborough, with a miscellaneous shower.

Rev. Townsend acted as chairman and a program of community singing, solos, recitations, and short speeches was much enjoyed.

Miss Mabel Sharp read the following address after which the bride and groom thanked all for the numerous gifts. A dainty lunch and a social hour climaxed the evening.

Dear Aileen and Melville,—
To-night, your friends and neighbors have gathered here to greet you and to enjoy an evening with you.

Fond memory takes us back to days, not so long ago, when you were a child, Aileen, one of the Wellman's school children, in whose progress we were never disappointed. Many a time, we have enjoyed dialogues, in which you took a leading part and we remember how freely you gave of your talent to the play, which our young people prepared. We were sorry when your work took you from our midst, but we rejoiced in your success. And now you have come to the happiest time in your life, the time of starting a home of your own.
We feel you are well prepared for this joyful task.

To many of us, Melville, you are a stranger, but as Aileen's husband, we welcome you and extend the glad hand of friendship.
To you both, we say,—“Oh, live each hour of this glad time—let nothing mar its bliss—When you are old and time has fled—you will remember this—the wedding day, the showers, the beautiful bouquets—the kisses of your friends and all the raptures of these days. . . So, take each other by the hand and face the future years—together on the road of life through smiles and trials and tears—True lovers till the journey's end no matter what may loom—May God send sunshine all the way, and bless this Bride and Groom.”

Signed,—Donna McGee, Doris Pollock, Hazel Dunham, Mabel Sharp.

BE CAREFUL WHERE YOU PARK

In spite of all that has been said in this column in the past, there are still motorists who persist in parking their cars in front of fire hydrants and private driveways. We would be the last to want to see any district resident fined for an infraction of the Village Parking Law, but when people persist in flouting the law, what else can be done?

On Saturday night a local resident was inconvenienced considerably because some thoughtless motorist parked a car in front of his private driveway and left it there for some time. One hates to think of what might be the result if a fire occurred and the brigade was unable to reach the scene because of a blocked driveway. Motorists are urged to be careful where they park.

DIRTY PICNICKERS

Now that the holiday season is in full swing and picnics are being held on holidays and week-ends, the usual complaints are heard from the owners of the favourite picnicking spots over the untidiness of some people. As one man stated to the News-Argus, "no one wants to pick up old dirty paper, empty tin cans, broken bottles, banana and orange peelings, etc., left lying around."

Nor should they be expected to. Many picnickers trespass on private property as though they owned the place and make themselves a general nuisance. Owners of good picnicking spots cannot be blamed for objecting when all sorts of litter is left lying around for someone else to clean up and folks who do that sort of thing can blame no one but themselves if they are deprived of a place to spend a pleasant hour with members of their family and friends.

This is something to keep in mind the next time you have a picnic along your favourite lake or stream. It will only take a few minutes to tidy up the place before you leave, and if you do this you will always be welcome.

DROWNING SEASON

Once again the press is filled with accounts of drownings. In some cases the victims have been good swimmers. No one, not even a good swimmer, can afford to take unnecessary chances. Anyone is liable to be rendered helpless with cramps. It may happen to you.

Places where swimming is indulged in should have life preservers handy, and, if possible, a boat. Drownings are sudden and unexpected. It is too late to act if one has to run far for help or for a boat.

Many a fishing party has ended a tragedy because some one did not keep seated in the boat, or because common sense was not used.

Children should not be allowed to bathe alone. Some responsible person should be in charge. A child may drown in a foot of water.

Why take a chance? Prevent drownings by care and common sense. Think!

FAMILY REUNIONS

The season of family reunions is again with us. Already the dates have been announced for a number of them and there is no doubt that there will be many more in this district before the summer is over. Oak Lake, with its fine scenery and the splendid accommodations provided by the owners of the different picnic grounds, holds an attraction for events of this kind and many who have met with their old friends at this popular resort in other years will again return this year. These reunions serve to keep them in touch with each other and enable them to maintain pride in a common ancestry. But they do more. They furnish an opportunity of paying tribute to the men and women of the past who settled this country, set up homes in the wilderness and left a heritage which should ever be cherished, because of great sacrifice connected with it.

DITTY BAGS AND MAGAZINES

Don't forget to apply at your nearest Navy League branch for empty ditty bags to be filled during the Summer and Fall, ready for early shipment to our men in the Pacific and the Atlantic. You can drop your 1943-45 magazines in at the same time. They are very badly needed for our men at sea and in Naval hospitals and Navy League Clubs!

JUST A BOY

After a male baby has grown out of long clothes and triangles and has acquired pants, freckles and so much dirt that relatives do not dare to kiss it between meals, it becomes a boy. A boy is Nature's answer to that false belief that there is no such thing as perpetual motion. A boy can swim like a fish, run like a deer, climb like a squirrel, balk like a mule, bellow like a bull, eat like a pig, or act like a jackass, according to climatic conditions.

He is a piece of skin stretched over an appetite. A noise, covered with smudges. He is called a tornado because he comes at the most unexpected times, hits the most unexpected places, and leaves everything a wreck behind him. He is a growing animal of superlative promise, to be fed, watered, and kept warm, a joy forever, a periodic nuisance, the problem of our times, the hope of a nation. Every boy is evidence that God is not yet discouraged of man.

Were it not for boys, the newspapers would go unread and a thousand picture shows would go bankrupt. Boys are useful in running errands. A boy can easily do the family errands with the aid of five or six adults. The zest with which a boy does an errand is equalled only by the speed of a turtle on a July day. The boy is a natural spectator. He watches parades, fires, fights, ball games, automobiles, boats and airplanes with equal fervor, but will not watch the clock. The man who invents a clock that will stand on its head and sing a song when it strikes will win undying gratitude of millions of families whose boys are forever coming to dinner about supper time.—Gananogue Reporter.

their ribbons and Maple Leaf subsequent to their return to civilian status but there are objections to this practice as technically it is incorrect to wear decorations on civilian dress. In addition, the practice of wearing ribbons has been indulged in by unprincipled individuals who are intent upon victimizing the public.

We feel strongly about the matter and emphasize that returned men should not be placed in this category. To avoid it a special button, as suggested should be designed as soon as possible and authorized to be worn only by those who have seen overseas service. At present there is only the discharge button with three Maple Leaves, showing that the wearer has been in uniform but giving no indication of the extent of his service.

Rylstone Women's Institute Met

The Rylstone Women's Institute met on Thursday, July 5th, at the home of Mrs. Alfred Barnum. The President, Mrs. Harold Henderson, opened the meeting with the Ode and Lord's Prayer in unison. The Roll Call on Who's Who in Ontario, was answered by 18 members. After the reading of the minutes by Secretary Mrs. S. G. Melkjohn, the business part and correspondence was considered. Mrs. Ray Stewart "Citizenship Convener", then took charge of the programme, first giving her report on the District Annual held in June in Marmora. A paper on "Rural Education and Citizenship" was well prepared and given by Mrs. Clarence Barnum. The topic which was prepared by Mrs. Henderson on "Citizenship", and was splendidly explained and instructive, was read by Mrs. Murray Melkjohn. A fine poem entitled, "Building a Nation" made a suitable conclusion for the topic.

A questionnaire on recent elections and members of Parliament and council, etc., was then conducted. The next meeting will be held at Mrs. Simpson's and will be held in the form of an afternoon tea (charge 25c) proceeds to go to Sick Children's Hospital Fund.

The meeting closed with God Save the King, after which the hostess served salted peanuts.

REJOINS BANK STAFF

Flt. Lieut. Evan "Tip" Tammon, D.F.C., son of Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Tammon, Foxboro, has received his discharge from the R.C.A.F. and will rejoin the staff of The Bank of Montreal in Belleville shortly. "Tip" has been enjoying a holiday with his bride at the home of his parents before taking up his civilian occupation.

WELCOMES RETURNING HEROES: Thirty-one years a Canadian soldier, (C.E.F., militia, C.A.S.F. and reserve), Seymour Tyler, Canadian Pacific Railway sleeping car porter, is unofficial greeter to thousands of the fighting men and women being rushed home now on the sleepers and diners taken out of ordinary service (above). A high point in his World War II experience was leading the First Division to trains from shipside at Greenock, Scotland, in December of 1939 as band sergeant of the Carleton and York Regiment bugle band. His most prized possession is a silver bugle, gift of Carleton and York warrant and non-commissioned officers, about which the King questioned him at Aldershot in 1940 (inset).

What Others Say!

A DANGEROUS PRACTICE

More accidents occur than one imagines, just as the result of one man in charge of a car being in congested quarters—in a position through the over-crowded front seat, that he is unable to operate the machine as efficiently as he could had he been sufficient room.

Over-crowding is not alone risky to the driver, but it is dangerous to the other occupants of the automobile, and to the travelling public generally. It is a practice that should be stopped.

ped. There are already enough hazards on the road without this one.—Chatham News.

THE WAY IT WORKS

There is generally a catch in boons conferred by a Government. When Premier King trotted out his family allowance project many people observed that some class would be called upon to pay for this generosity toward another section of the population. Sure enough it now develops that people taxable under our income tax system will be called upon to pay more.—Almonte Gazette.

SPECIAL BUTTON FOR OVERSEAS MEN?

It has been suggested that the Department of National Defence issue a special button to be worn by members of the fighting services who have served overseas. It is a fact that members of the armed forces who have had overseas service in the present war can be easily recognized by the silver Maple Leaf on the ribbon of the active service decoration on their tunics, but it will be difficult to recognize them and accord them the honour they so richly deserve once they return to civilian attire. True, some, a very few, may wear

NEWS FOR THE BUSY FARMER

WEEDS IN FLAX

Weed contamination in flax crops is one of the most serious problems with which flax growers have to contend. Flax plants do not shade the ground to the same extent as grain crops, and, in consequence, weeds have good chance to develop.

SOME FARM MACHINES IN SHORT SUPPLY

Beginning July 1, rationing of new farm machinery and equipment will be limited to 25 items which are still in short supply. These items are: corn pickers; tractor ploughs; tractor mounted ploughs; one-way disc, tiller or harrow ploughs; tandem tractor disc harrows; single side disc harrows—13' or over; spring and stiff tooth field cultivators; tractor mounted cultivators; tractor or semi-mounted mowers; side delivery rakes; hay loaders; pick-up hay balers; grain binders (horse and tractor drawn); corn binders; potato diggers; combine or reaper threshers; windrowers or swathers; threshers, ensilage harvesters; standard and row crop tractors; garden tractors; rubber-tired gears or rollers; power potato sprayers or dustors; fruit or orchard power sprayers; pressure water systems and power pumps. All these still require approval by rationing officers before purchase.

SILAGE INFORMATION

This is the time when farmers must decide what crops to ensile and what methods to use in ensiling these crops. Many questions are asked on this subject and experiments have been conducted at the Central Experimental Farm, Ottawa, over a period of years in order to secure reliable information on the best methods of ensiling various crops. A special bulletin on "Silage Production" has been issued on this subject covering the results of these experiments.

While few difficulties are experienced in ensiling corn, more crops must be taken with other crops, especially legumes. As the spring of 1945 has been unfavorable for seeding, it is possible that more late seeded crops as well as legumes and grass may be ensiled this year. Corn and sunflowers also may be seeded late with good results, but these crops offer no special difficulties in ensiling. A copy of "Silage Production" may be obtained by writing to the Department of Agriculture, Ottawa.

"HARDWARE DISEASE" COMMON IN CATTLE

Besides the danger of poisoning of cattle through old bones being left around pastures and live stock lots, there is another disease which occurs almost entirely in cattle as a result of untidy surroundings. This is known as "Hardware disease" and is occasioned by the common habit of cattle eating nails, staples, pieces of wire, and other sharp metal objects which they find in pastures and elsewhere around the farm. This assorted hardware often penetrates vital organs, sometimes with fatal effect.

Though not contagious in the usual sense of the word, "Hardware disease" is transmitted through carelessness, according to many veterinarians. They state also that in dairy cattle the losses from "Hardware disease" exceed those from any one contagious disease. Prevention consists in keeping pastures, feedlots, fence corners, and all other parts of the premises free from small pieces of sharp metal, nails and other pieces of hardware that might cause injury to cattle or other stock.

MANY ADVANTAGES OF EMPLOYMENT SERVICE

Anything that affects the Canadian standard of living is sharply reflected in farming communities, so that the prompt enactment of the Unemployment Insurance Act, after the consent of the provinces had been obtained, was an important step taken in the Dominion during the war. It embraces all phases and perhaps more important even than the benefits to be paid is the fact that the Act enabled the Dominion to set up its first comprehensive national employment agency system, which now contains an experienced staff moving towards sharp improvement in preventing unemployment by anticipating the need for workers where they are wanted on farms, in industry, and in office.

In an economy such as Canada's with a great agricultural branch and a great industrial branch, mobility of manpower is imperative. When the activity of one branch slackens, another will require men and women. It is here that the employment system will work its greatest good. Through the experience gained in war, it will be able to anticipate employment needs. Every employment office will know every day where jobs are available and where men are available for jobs. It will be able to place men and women in employment more quickly than ever before, just as it will be able to find workers for jobs with greater facility. Neither was possible under the old provincial systems.

In the beginning, many persons felt that the main function of the commission would be to pay out unemployment benefits. Today, it is recognized that its employment service, because of its positive approach to the problem of unemployment, will be more important. By getting workers into jobs quickly it will add to national efficiency, and will reduce the effect of unemployment upon the Canadian standard of living.

NEW METHODS

For the first time in Canada, planes have been used to help the farmers in the Bay of Quinte district. Medium and late varieties of peas have been infected by lice. Planes are being used to dust approximately 500 acres.

Agitation in the Capital

Notwithstanding the headlines of news in this nation's capital where leaders of the Government, including Ministers of the Cabinet, have not been able to take a real holiday this summer due to preoccupation with official business at a time when most people have been having vacations, yet it must be reported that the "big story" of the moment backstage on Parliament Hill now is the effort to provide "full measures of employment" for the masses. A hint of this has already been dropped in Ottawa by one leader when he claimed that returning men were glad to get gratuities, credit, etc., but "these men want a chance to earn a living by the sweat of their brows and the toll of their hands", with the only solution for Canadian problems being employment and the greatest stimulant of employment being trade with other countries. In fact, in answer to demands for a flow of immigration into the vast open and empty spaces of Canada in the present postwar era, the ready reply heard in this capital is that before immigration can even be started, employment must be found first for the returning men and women of the armed services and second for workers displaced from war industries.

In short, "full employment" seems to be in the mind of leaders on Parliament Hill at this time to a most surprising extent as ways and means are being sought to assure that private industry as well as the government may be enabled to provide a high level of employment in the immediate period ahead. Moreover, it will not be an easy, nor simple task, in the opinions of many, since the people have become accustomed in the war years to a rather higher standard of living in instances so that it will not be possible to create a sort of "artificial continuation of" full employment merely by government spending or by a "primitive economy". Therefore, this is easily and by far the most talked about subject on Parliament Hill at this time, though it may not appear to be to the average man or woman reading or hearing the news from the capital, with its importance as a problem growing by the hour.

A sharp reminder of the role which Canada's air force will play in the Pacific war was given by conferences held in Ottawa between Air Marshal Sir Hugh Pugh Lloyd Commander of the British Air Forces in the Pacific, and Air Minister Colin Gibson as well as the Canadian Chief of Air Staff, Air Marshal Robert Leckie, with these important meetings taking place prior to the departure of the British Commander for this theatre of war operations where the Royal Canadian Air Force will serve under his command.

Canada's Own 10 Downing Street
It is intimated in Ottawa that Canada may have before long an official residence for its Prime Minister just as the famous No. 10 Downing Street in London serves as the official residence of the British Prime Minister, with the move in this direction being the legal expropriation proceedings initiated for a large sized property owned by a member of Canada's Parliament, Gordon C. Edwards, and located in an old section of this nation's capital. An offer of $125,000 has been made for this old residence near the Ottawa River.

P. M. is Most Optimistic

The defeat of Prime Minister Mackenzie King in the last general elections has been a topic of much whispering in Ottawa in regard to his future plans and their significance, especially in suggestions that the Prime Minister may not enter into certain negotiations or plans before he had gained a seat for himself in the new Parliament, nor that he would visit President Truman before this event had occurred. However, well-informed quarters on Parliament Hill hold that the Prime Minister himself is extremely optimistic that he will be in his seat in the House of Commons in the coming session of the 20th Parliament, judging by present reports of his chances.

Trade and Diplomacy

A hint of things to come is seen in Ottawa in the new trend on the part of the Canadian Government to bring about a closer and closer co-operation between its Department of Trade and Commerce and Department of External Affairs so that representatives of this country in other nations may work together in both diplomacy and trade, particularly since reciprocal trading with other nations and lower world tariffs in the "new era" are expected to be the basis for Canada's co-operation in general with other nations which will be moving away from isolation in a practical expression of the spirit of the San Francisco Conference Charter.

Still Financial Enigma

For a considerable time now reports have been heard on Parliament Hill about the financial enigma involved in trading or sales of Canadian Pacific Railway shares in Britain, Canada and the United States, with such trading said to be huge in proportion and the rise of such shares claimed to have reached its highest peak for at least a generation. Moreover, while there are many Canadians who would like to see the shares of this great railway owned by people in Canada, yet present signs seem to indicate that the change means more and more shares will be owned by Americans rather than Canadians. The majority of the common shares of this railway were held by British people or in the United Kingdom where such majority shares have been held for a long time since the earliest days of the railway, with less than a fifth of all these shares belonging to Canadians and a little over a fifth to Americans. During World War II, British investments outside of the country were used for the purposes of financing the war but the shares held in Britain of the C. P. R. account were not involved in any such deals. Now, these British shares in this Canadian railway are the subject of various stories on Parliament Hill and the movement of such shares is said to be going to Americans rather than Canadians, producing a first rate financial enigma.

Momentous Events Impending

Though these changes may not be forthcoming completely immediately, yet there are strong insinuations in usually reliable quarters in this capital that momentous events are impending in the Department of Mines and Resources. These are claimed to be closely related to the expectation of tremendous developments in Canada's Northwest Territories during the coming postwar period, including a mining "boom" in these areas and a general acceleration of such activities in the Canadian Arctic, Sub-Arctic, and adjacent northern territories.

Delicious and Refreshing "SALADA" ICED TEA

Important Increase

Starting in the present month, a ten per cent increase in the allocation of newspaper for Canadian consumption will be allowed and this may relieve the headaches of newspaper publishers to some extent. At least, it is the beginning of a betterment for the publishers, though outside sources are said to be seeking Canadian newspaper almost as fast, it may be increased in production, with one such instance having been indicated in the arrival in Ottawa of the Government Printer for the Union of South Africa, Col. J. J. Kroger, accompanied by R. S. Baker and C. Pearce, Col. Kruger came to Ottawa in order to get more newspaper form Canada, and it is hinted that he has been promised that more will be provided. However, another report has shown that such shipments from Canada to European publishers may be curbed and Scandinavian newspaper may be sent to provide the European needs in this respect.

Weekly Wind-up

Amidst tremendous applause, a prediction was made by Premier King at a meeting in Ottawa that "some day" this same audience would be listening to the "Prime Minister of India".... When it became known that the Federal Government had planned to send the "baby bonus" cheques to fathers in Quebec whereas to mothers in the other eight Provinces, this, caused much resentment in some quarters, though this dislike of policy was not heavily publicized. A missionary who spent a long period in the Far East, Rev. Father Harold J. Murphy, has come forth with the declaration that the war against Japan will not end quickly, "because the Japanese will not surrender unless they are backed to the wall", even saying in Ottawa that this struggle may continue for as much as two years.... With the annual budget being prepared now for presentation at the coming session of Canada's Parliament which opens in August, a large share of the responsible tasks for preparing this budget has fallen on the shoulders of an official who is merely acting for another official who is quite ill and away for a long time now, Dr. W. A. Macintosh is carrying on in this heavy task for the Deputy Minister of Finance, Dr. W. C. Clarke, who is ill and who is not expected to be back at his desk in Ottawa for a considerable time.

As the man rushed frantically down the country lane, he came across a farm lad.
"Quick!" he panted. "A man-eating tiger has escaped from the circus!"
"Ee," said the countryman placidly, "which way he it going?"
"You don't think I'm chasing it, do you?" exploded the runner with a gasp.

RAISE MORE & BETTER HOGS

The SHUR-GAIN way means bigger profits

Market your grains through hogs, for bigger profits. This year, hogs are vitally needed, both on the domestic and overseas markets. Plentiful grains, plus SHUR-GAIN HOG CONCENTRATE, mean that you can make hog production the most profitable line on your farm!

—CONSIDER THESE FIGURES—

1. Grain, at present cash prices, is worth approximately $40.00 to $50.00 per ton.
2. 650 lbs. of grain plus $1.65 worth of SHUR-GAIN HOG CONCENTRATE builds 200 lbs. of pork on a weanling pig.
3. With hog prices at 17 3-4 for a B1, your hog is worth $35.50 plus $2.50 bonus, or a total of $38.00. Your weanling pig cost you $8.00, which clears you $30.00, less $1.65 for Hog Concentrate, or a total of $28.35 per hog. $28.35 for 650 lbs. of grain, means that your grain is worth over $80.00 per ton, when marketed through hogs!

The SHUR-GAIN method of hog raising has all the advantages!

CRIPPLED CHILDREN

ATTEND CAMP

This is the happiest day of the year for 44 young crippled lads who left the Ontario Society for Crippled Children headquarters this morning for a two-week holiday at the Society's Blue Mountain Camp near Collingwood on Georgian Bay. Nineteen of them have never been at camp before.

Awaiting their turn in all parts of Ontario are 132 more boys and girls who will also have a two-week holiday at Blue Mountain Camp during the summer months. Their names are submitted to the Society by its nursing staff, service clubs and public health nurses.

The Ontario Society for Crippled Children is closely associated with the Hospital for Sick Children. All the Hospital's orthopaedic patients and discharged hospital patients living outside Toronto are regularly visited by the Society's nurses.

"A few years ago, after the polio epidemic, at least 75 per cent of the campers were handicapped because of infantile paralysis, and quite a number went to camp on Bradford frames," said Miss Gretta M. Ross, director of nurses. "Now the majority are cases of cerebral palsy."

"With fewer bed patients this year," she continued, "more organized activity will be possible. Campers will write and produce their own plays, swim, play ball and take part in all the usual young people's sports. Visitors watching our ball games are always amazed to see a boy go up to bat in a wheel chair."

"And I'll never forget," added Miss Marjorie Morrish, Society secretary, "how excited one little girl was during her first night at camp when she saw the moon for the first time."

Under the direction of an occupational therapist, camp days are also filled with leatherwork, weaving and woodcarving. Friends from nearby communities provide transportation to church in Collingwood and to other activities.

Blue Mountain Camp is made possible through the generosity of interested individuals and service clubs throughout the Province. Miss Alberta Carson, R.N., a graduate of the Hospital for Sick Children, is camp supervisor and on the nursing staff are Miss Mary Jo Dale and Miss Margaret Murphy, both of Toronto.

Service To Locate Relatives Inaugurated

A service to people in Canada anxious to try to locate relatives or friends in Europe by short wave broadcasts is announced today by the Canadian Red Cross Society. This service will be rendered through the Red Cross Enquiry Bureau, 130 Queen Street, Ottawa, and is arranged through the facilities and with the co-operation of the International Service of the Canadian Broadcasting Corporation of the International Service of the Canadian Broadcasting Corporation. This service will be confined at the moment to Holland and Czechoslovakian programs already being broadcast from the International Service transmitters. It is hoped to start the service almost immediately but arrangements for reception of the messages in their respective countries, now in process of completion through the governments of the countries concerned, must first be made.

Personal messages, limited to 50 words, and free of charge, will be accepted. No reference may be made to public affairs, to business or to money. The message must be for a person, not for a company or an organization. These must be submitted to local Canadian Red Cross Society branches on forms which they will supply. The branches will then send the messages through their Provincial Commissioners to the Red Cross Enquiry Bureau which will immediately despatch them to the International Service of the Canadian Broadcasting Corporation where they will be broadcast both in the language of the country for which they are intended and in English.

A joint U.S.—Canadian commission is commencing a five-year survey to estimate the power and irrigation potentialities of the 1200-mile long Columbia River in British Columbia and the state of Washington.

Meatless Days Start

Commercial slaughtering of all livestock in Canada were placed under permit control effective July 9th as the first major step in re-imposition of meat rationing in the Dominion, the Prices Board announced today.

The new order superseded all former slaughtering regulations and provided for reestablishment of quotas to maintain a balance between export requirements and domestic needs. However, present holders of valid permits may continue slaughtering.

The new slaughter control, under which the meat administrator has power to set quotas for the slaughtering of all livestock, was the first development following announcement by Prime Minister Mackenzie King that meat rationing would be re-imposed in Canada "shortly."

The new rationing plan will provide about 1-1/2 pounds of actual meat per person a week. This is approximately equal to two pounds on a carcass basis. Under the previous ration consumers were able to buy from one pound of smoked or cooked meat to 2-1/2 pounds of cuts such as blade roasts of beef with the bone in.

Hello, Homemakers!

We hope you are enjoying the produce of your Victory Garden. The pleasure derived from gathering and serving your own salad green should offset the backstretching and knee-bending hours spent in protecting your garden from weeds.

All the vegetable greenery, as well as colourful radishes, carrots, beets, tomatoes, and so on, add their own individuality to salads. Fruits too—berries, cherries, melons, peaches—follow along in succession to add pep and goodness to your meals.

Whether you pick your own assortment of salad materials or buy them, please do be sure that they're young and tender. Wash thoroughly, drain on towel and chill to crispness before you use them. Chop, slice, or shred finely. Just before serving add salad dressing—do not mix too much. If your salads are to be attractive and crisp do not prepare them too long before serving.

TAKE A TIP

Keep Electric Refrigerator Clean

Clean the inside of the refrigerator every two weeks. The dial should be turned to "defrost" or "off" position. Having removed the food from the shelf below the freezing unit, spread a layer of heavy paper on it. Insert a pan of hot water in the freezing unit to soften ice quickly; meanwhile take out everything in the cabinet. Wash the interior with a mild solution of water and baking soda (1 tsp. to 1 gal. of water). Wipe the coils inside the ice tray units as well as the sides of compartments. Dry out before turning on the electricity.

Wash ice cube trays in warm water with clean cloth to prevent the ice cubes from becoming flavoured. Scrub shelves and dry them. Rub the rubber gasket on the door with a damp cloth wrung out of clear water.

Do not use a scouring powder on the outside of cabinet. Wash with mild soapy water and dry well.

Coils should be cleaned of dirt and dust at least two or three times a year, because accumulated dirt keeps the coils hot.

It may prove to be a good economy to have your dealer or reliable service man inspect the refrigerator, if that has not been done for some time. Older types which may require oiling should be oiled every month.

SALAD SUGGESTIONS

1. Sliced beef liver loaf, spinach and lettuce salad with sour cream and chopped hard-cooked egg dressing, tomato wedges.

2. Jellied vegetables moulds, cheese and parsley sandwiches (triple decker) ribbons with brown and white bread, pickled beets.

3. Stuffed cooked beets, chilled green beans in French dressing, green onions, radishes.

4. Jellied veal and rice moulds, currant jelly, mixed vegetable greens on nasturtium greens with salad dressing.

5. Egg halves in tomato jelly, cottage cheese and parsley moulds, brown rolls stuffed with cabbage slaw

6. Corned beef and head cheese, jellied horse-radish, macaroni salad, grated carrot with mayonnaise, lettuce.

7. Chilled cooked fish on lettuce, cucumbers in sour cream and potato salad.

CORN CAKES

3-4 cups cooked corn, 1-2 cup milk, 1-2 tsp. sugar, 2 eggs, 7-8 cup flour, 3 tps. baking powder, 1-2 tsp. salt.

Add the milk and sugar to corn and combine with the eggs which have been well beaten. Sift together the dry ingredients and add to the corn mixture. Drop by tablespoonful into greased muffin tins. Bake in an electric oven at 375 degrees—about one-half hour. (Suggested for meat salads.)

Suggestion

MOCK POTATO CAKES

1 cup dried split peas, 1 cup dry bread crumbs, 4 tps. milk, 2 tps. minced onion, 1 tsp. sage, 2 eggs (beaten), 2 tsp. pickle sauce, 1-2 tsp. salt and f. g. pepper.

Cook washed split peas in boiling salted water until tender (soak for a few hours first, if desired), then drain and force through a sieve to make a thick puree. Combine with remaining ingredients and mix thoroughly. Shape into patties and roll in additional crumbs. Chill in electric refrigerator until tea time (about 1 hour), then saute until brown. Serve with a relish, if desired.

THE SUGGESTION BOX

Mrs. J. S. says: (1) To stiffen net-veils iron them on waxed paper.

(2) Freshen roses by replacing them face down in a bowl of cold water.

(3) Stamps stuck together can be separated by covering them with a sheet of paper and pressing with a warm iron.

Mrs. M. M. says: We've had our electric toaster in constant service for 18 years because we keep crumb tray clean and keep cord free from kinks; pull out the plug gently—never yank it. If toast sticks, we ease it out carefully with a fork; never dunk toaster in water and above-all handle it carefully.

CAMPBELLFORD

HAS RACING MEET ON JULY 18

Campbellford has served notice on the harness racing fans that they are having a meet in the old home town on Wednesday, July 18, which promises to be quite a day of racing. The purses will be of $210 value, and no entry fee will be charged.

After dinner in a barrack room the cookhouse orderly appeared:

"Where's the puddin' cloth?" He asked.

"Cloth?" echoed one of the men.

"What cloth?"

"The cloth the puddin' was done up in," replied the orderly.

A gasp went around the room.

"Lumme," said one of the soldiers.

"I thought that puddin' was tough!"

MOLLY'S SON

BY HARRY M. MOORE

A Story of Harness Horse Racing in the Early 1900's
(All Rights Reserved)

CHAPTER IV

When a heavy work horse implanted a steel shod hoof into the hip and side of Bill Moran's trotter, Molly, in the pasture field near Holmesville that day in late March, he did more than seriously injure a true sportsman's best bet in the harness horse racing game. That heavy work horse removed from any further competition the one thing, other than the speedway, that had made Holmesville the talk of the country.

For Molly was more than a dependable racing machine. Molly was an institution. Wherever she raced, she had her loyal following from the home village. Indeed, the villagers followed her around as though she were a baseball team or a lacrosse team. In her five years of racing and two years of producing, at which time she was the dam of two of the finest race horses that were ever foaled, she had never failed her owner or her supporters.

A glossy black, with long flowing mane and tail, she was as high-headed as a queen. A perfect white star set off her beautiful head, gave it that touch of elegance that can only be found in a trotter of the finest lines of breeding. Across her throat was a white patch, more of a streak than a patch, and only seen from one side as her mane covered the other.

There was quite a story about that scar, for it was a scar. A story of a night when the racing association was holding a meeting in a back room of the village hotel, a room overlooking the yard. Bill Moran was there, and so was Doc Brisco and Cy Holmes and T. B. Telfer and many others who had come to plan the racing programme for the midsummer races at the new speedway.

There was the customary drinking about the place, and a bar tender's difficulties with a swarthy man who looked more Indian than white and who had to be roughly ejected into the yard.

Bill Moran was the first to notice stranger leading a pretty little black mare toward a dilapidated sulky. And taking a horseman's fancy to the spirited animal, he attracted the attention of the other club members to her. They watched the drunken driver attempt to back her into the shafts and when she accidentally stepped on him, he hauled off and struck her on the side of the head with his fist. The back room of the hotel emptied in a flash. By the time the club members reached the scene, they saw a long knife flash across the mare's throat.

It was T. B. Telfer, the blacksmith, who felled the breed with one lusty punch. Then while Bill Moran held the edges of the wound together, Doc Brisco, who never failed to produce needed articles when required, performed some neat sewing.

Soberly the breed got to his feet, saw the trouble he had let himself in for, and when Bill Moran took a gambler's chance and offered him five ten dollar bills for the injured animal, he took the money willingly and readily answered some questions.

The mare under the careful attention of the veterinary and her new owner recovered in a short time, but to her dying day she bore a scar that mystified no end of people who had never heard of the incident.

But Bill Moran, to whom breeding in a horse was most important, was to learn that his purchase was a sort of mystery animal. The breed had called her Lady, but he knew nothing of her origin. He said he got her in a trade with a gypsy and that she was about three years old. Doc Brisco read the mare's teeth and said that would be about her age.

Try as he might, and he really tried, Bill Moran never did get any information on the mare's background. Her name did not appear in the standard-bred books as either being foaled or raced, and when the officials of the association were asked about her, they shook their heads and said as far as the records showed there never was such an animal.

Bill Moran was a noted horseman. In his many years of training and driving the standard breeds he owned few racers himself, always preferring to handle horses for other people. While this new mare bore signs of good breeding and she had been well broken, it was not until after Bill Moran hitched her to a jogging cart and took her a few turns around the exercise track in a back field of his farm that he was to sense that here might be a prize. The mare was a smooth going trotter and she had speed to burn.

So he decided that since she was not registered he would have that done at once, and since she had no name and his wife's name was Molly, and Molly had already shown more interest in this poor abused thing than any horse brought around the place, "Molly" became the name of Bill Moran's new trotter.

Molly was not in condition for the summer racing. She was a bit awkward yet, and her shoeing was off. However, when T. B. Telfer took that matter in hand, Molly soon straightened out and having been brought to the speedway she was prepared for the fall meet.

Molly did well for her new owner. Bill Moran often said that she started him back into the racing game at the very time he was making up his mind to retire.

After her third year of racing, a year in which she had beaten the best of them, Molly was bred to the imported Fosafar and the next year she dropped a filly. A few years later that same filly, grown up into a fine racing machine and under the name of Sunshine, was the sensation of the Grand Circuit. Another two years of racing, and another Fosafar colt, this time a stallion, the stallion Supreme, who was heading for the two minute class in the big time when he broke a leg and had to be destroyed.

Molly's final racing season was 1904. She had done so well for her owner that Bill Moran had decided for another foal, only to be told that Fosafar had been found dead in his stall. The horseman decided that Molly would have to be retired some time, and there was no time like the present, so when the spring of 1905 was approaching he turned her out to pasture. It was then she met with the accident that might well spoil any plans he had made to pay her off with a quiet retirement as his wife's driver.

So Bill Moran was feeling quite badly about his mare when he opened his front door to Benny Bannerman that night.

Moran brought the boy inside and told him to be seated. Mrs. Moran was out to the neighbor's at the time.

"I expected you'd run out when you heard about it," Bill said. "You know, Benny, it made me kinda sick inside.... all the plans I had for Molly are knocked into a cocked hat...."

Benny Bannerman licked his lips and came to the point at once.

"Mr. Moran," he began, "I came here to ask you something.... to see if you would give Molly to me."

"But she's no good to you, no good to anybody," Bill Moran protested. "She can hardly stand up.... she was kicked so hard her stifle joint was put out, and Doc Brisco had to sew her up."

"Mr. Moran," the boy insisted, "Molly may be no good to any person. She may never race again for you; but I have driven her so much that I got to liking her; got to liking her so much that I want her, Mr. Moran...."

The horseman reached for his hat. He led the boy to the door, down past the driveway and the barn to the stables. It was not yet dark.

Entering the stables and opening the door of a box stall, Bill Moran stepped inside, Benny following him.

"There she is," said the horseman. "She's so stiff she can hardly move. Doc Brisco put some stuff into those cuts after he sewed them." Then turning to the boy he added, "And you would still take her? In that condition?"

"Yes," said Benny Bannerman firmly. "I would want her even if all her legs were broken and she was cut from end to end...." he broke off and said quickly, "Come here, Molly," and the mare hobbled over and laid her head on his shoulder.

Bill Moran studied the scene for a long minute, then he doffed his hat and bowed in reverence.

"My boy," he said, "take her. She's all yours, and may God love you for this. I can't stand to see her suffering, and yet I haven't the heart to have her destroyed. Who knows but under your care she may get over this, and if she does she may give you something that will make a Sunshine or a Supreme look like a dray-horse."

Red Cross Nutrition News

Cheese

Now that Johnny is drinking his milk, we want to make sure he is eating his cheese. It too is one of our most valuable foods and should have a prominent place in meals of both adults and children, for the best paediatricians now state that even young children can be given a small amount of cheese in their daily diet. Like milk, cheese is an almost perfect food and contains many of the priceless food values found in milk, in a compact, highly delicious form. If desired, it can take the place or part of the daily milk requirement, and a 1-inch cube of cheese is roughly equivalent in nutrition importance to 1 glass of milk.

Apart from its sales-value for nutrition alone, cheese is an ageless favourite for flavour in its own right. It is not only a tid-bit, an enhancer of other foods, but it is an integral part of many dishes. Because of its high protein content it rates in the same class of food as meat, fish, poultry and eggs, and to gain the full value of it in the diet we should give it its rightful place in the well-balanced meal, rather than as a condiment for flavour only.

Considered from the standpoint of food value, flavour, easy assimilation (for cheese is not hard to digest) and economy, cheese is an excellent food to use in lunch or dinner dishes. As cheese has already been subject to heat in manufacture, always add it to sauces, etc., at the last minute so further heat treatment won't toughen it. When you really want a "cheesy" treat instead of meat for a change, you can't beat this one for appetite appeal for cheese has a happy faculty for blending deliciously with other foods.

Eggs Florentine
3 tbsps. butter or mild flavoured fat; 3 tbsps. flour; 1 1/2 cup milk; 1 1/2 cup grated medium cheese; Salt and pepper, Spinach, cooked, chopped, seasoned, eggs.

Make cream sauce with the butter, flour and milk. Then add 1 cup grated cheese, stir until cheese is melted; season to taste.

Place a generous amount of thoroughly drained spinach in each shirred egg dish. Make a depression in the center of each and break a raw egg into it. Pour 3 tablespoons of cheese sauce around each egg and on the spinach, sprinkle with remaining cheese over the eggs, and bake in a moderate oven, 350 degrees, until the eggs are done.

Questions and Answers

This column is sponsored by the Regional Office, Wartime Prices and Trade Board. Questions on price control, ration regulations and other Wartime Prices and Trade Board rulings should be mailed to the Information Branch, Wartime Prices and Trade Board, Victoria Building, Brockville.

Q. Is it necessary to obtain a license and have prices set for women's articles which have been made at home?

A. Yes. Before such articles can be offered for sale either to storekeeper or to individuals it would be necessary to obtain a permit from the nearest Wartime Prices and Trade Board office. After the permit has been granted a sample of the product would have to be taken to the WPTB where a ceiling prices will be fixed.

Q. How many coupons must be given up for a jar of peach jam which contained 24 ounces?

A. Each preserves coupon is valid for the purchase of 12 fluid ounces of jam.... to purchase a 24-ounce jar it would be necessary to surrender two preserves coupons.

Q. Is 70c too much to pay for a six-ounce tin of fancy lobster.

A. No. The price of canned lobster is controlled by a Board order for the brand purchased 70c was not too high a price to pay. Canned lobster has always been considered a "luxury food" and the price was always quite high. During these war years men have risked their lives in sub-infested waters to fish for lobster.

Q. Would it be possible to get some extra sugar and a little butter in order to prepare food for a club affair which is held to raise money for charity?

A. Sorry, no extra rations are allowed for functions of this type. It would be necessary for the members to buy rationed articles with coupons from their own ration books.

Q. Is there a ceiling price on tobacco?

A. Yes, the price of pipe tobacco and cigarettes is controlled by the Prices Board.

POTATO SUPPLY WILL IMPROVE

"The low potato supply situation normal for this period of the year will improve within a week or 10 days with the arrival of further shipments of American stock," H. M. Higgins, WPTB prices and supply representative for Eastern Ontario, announced today.

"Supplies will be low during the next two weeks but if consumers refrain from buying more than their immediate requirements there will be enough for normal needs," Mr. Higgins said. "The shopper should remember that every time she buys more than her needs, she is actually buying potatoes, which in fairness, belongs to her neighbour."

Mr. Higgins explained that stocks of potatoes are usually low during this period of the year when Canada relies to a large extent on American imports until new domestic potatoes appear on the market. The situation has been aggravated this year by heavy United States Lend-Lease commitments and by the fact that large portions of the American crop are going to ships' stores to feed the swelling numbers of Canadian servicemen returning from Europe.

Celling price for new potatoes regardless of grade is set at 10 pounds for 52 cents or 5.2 cents per pound.

Mr. Higgins urged all consumers to report overcharges immediately to their nearest Prices Board Office.

PERSONS EARNING $2,000 to $3,000 PAY MOST TAXES

Persons in the income bracket from $2,000 to $3,000 a year are the largest contributors to income tax, it is disclosed in a report made public recently.

An estimate of the 1944 income tax picture shows that of a total of 2,450,000 taxpayers who will pay $692,000,000, apart from refundable taxes, into Government coffers, the 595,000 in the $2,000 to $3,000 bracket will pay $138,400,000.

Numerically, the largest group is that in the $1,000 to $2,000 class who total 1,290,000, but pay only $146,300,000. At the other end of the scale the Revenue Department's statistics estimate that for 1944, 150 Canadians will pay tax on incomes in excess of $100,000. Their total tax will be $18,365,000.

MADOC TWP. TO ADOPT SCHOOL AREA SYSTEM

As a result of a special meeting of council held recently, Madoc township will adopt a school area system uniting the fourteen schools in the township. Necessary by-laws were passed with the school area system to be inaugurated during the Christmas holiday period.

All existing school boards will then be dissolved and at the time of the municipal election a single board of five members for the entire township will be elected.

At a recent meeting of trustees and ratepayers held in the township hall at Eldorado, the benefits to be had by forming a township school area were pointed out by A. W. McGuire, Inspector for Centre Hastings. Under the new plan of organization the schools of Madoc Township will receive 80 per cent of all educational costs and an extra grant of $150.00 per school which amounts to $2100.00. In addition there are other financial advantages.

The benefits other than financial are many. Some of these are: More frequent meetings of school boards, better co-operation between the trustees and inspector, the securing of better libraries and school equipment, more attention to sanitary conditions, the possibility of dental and medical inspection, increased attention to school grounds and school buildings, an easier way of providing transportation to High School, a saving by purchasing school supplies in large quantities, the possibility of securing itinerant teachers for special subjects, such as music, manual training, agriculture, etc.

An airman on leave after a festive night in a friend's flat found himself in hospital with an anxious-looking friend beside the bed.

"What happened?" he inquired.

"You thought you could fly from that sixth-floor window instead of bothering with the lift."

"Good lor', man, why didn't you stop me?"

"Well, I thought you could."

As the man rushed frantically down the country lane, he came across a farm lad.

"Quick!" he panted. "A man-eating tiger has escaped from the circus!"

"Ee," said the countryman placidly, "which way be it going?"

"You don't think I'm chasing it, do you?" exploded the runner with a gasp.

After dinner in a barrack room the cookhouse orderly appeared.

"Where's the puddin' cloth?" he asked.

"Cloth?" echoed one of the men.

"What cloth?"

The cloth the puddin' was done up in," replied the orderly.

A gasp went around the room.

"Lumme," said one of the soldiers. "I thought that puddin' was tough!"

Board Plans For Fair In Fall

Committees Appointed And Prize List Revised At Meeting — Membership Drive

Plans for Stirling's Annual Fall Fair, September 24th and 25th, were under discussion at a meeting of the Agricultural Society held in the Agricultural office on Tuesday evening.

President Ewart Bailey presided and asked for the co-operation and assistance of all the directors in making this year's fair one of the best in the district.

Committees were named to interview various municipal councils relative to grants and to canvass for special prizes, as follows—Sidney, Ben Bleeker and E. J. Pyear; Rawdon, Ewart Bailey and Ray Shortt; Stirling, C. I. Hatton and H. R. Tompkins; special prizes, H. L. Fair, F. R. Mallory, W. H. Patterson, Gil Thompson, and Wm. Fitchett.

Secretary Mallory pointed out the need for early action by those committees to permit the printing of the prize list at an early date.

Membership Drive

A membership canvass will also be undertaken with the following directors in charge of the of the different territories—East of Marmora Road, Ewart Bailey and Geo. Sutherland; West of Marmora Road, Earl Wallace, Earl Fox and Ray Shortt. Holloway and district, Ben Bleeker and Clarence Fitchett. Glen Ross and River Valley district, E. J. Pyear and E. Carlsale.

Prize List Revised

The prize list was discussed and a number of revisions made, chief among them being the addition of a roadster and carriage class in the horse section, and changes in the poultry section in an effort to encourage local exhibitors. The revision of the ladies' work sections was left in the hands of the lady directors, and the manual training and domestic science sections to the teachers in charge at the local school.

Following a discussion on needed repairs to the fair buildings and improvements in accommodations for exhibitors, the Board adjourned to meet again on Tuesday, August 7th.

Directors present at the meeting were Messrs. R. E. Fox, Wm. Patterson, Wm. Fitchett, G. L. Johnstone, H. L. Fair, Ray Shortt, Earl Wallace, Clarence Fitchett, Don Heath, Geo. Sutherland, H. R. Tompkins, Ben Bleeker, and the president and secretary.

St. Andrew's W.M.S.

The July meeting of St. Andrew's W.M.S. met at the home of Mrs. E. Hoard, with a good attendance. Mrs. L. Dufee and Mrs. E. Hoard were in charge of the meeting, which opened with the singing of Hymn, "Praise Waits for Thee in Zion Lord", followed by the Glad Tidings prayer. Mrs. Anderson read the Scripture Lesson from Daniel. Mrs. L. Munro read the minutes of the last meeting. It was decided that the August meeting should be cancelled. The Roll Call was answered with "Praise." The collection was then taken and the Doxology repeated.

Mrs. Dufee took charge of the program. Hymn, "O Lord, Thou Art My Lord and King", was followed by a prayer from the Glad Tidings, by Mrs. Foster, and the 145 psalm in unison. Mrs. Hermiston gave a splendid paper on "Praise." Mrs. Walker and Mrs. Roy Eggleston gave a duet, "The Name of Jesus is so Sweet." Mrs. McIntosh gave a reading, "The King to his People on V-E Day."

Mrs. Eva McGee gave the topic on "Soviet Russia; Pagan or Christian?" based on the subject, the Church in Russia now is a stronger Christian community than it has been at any time in the thousand years of its history.

Mrs. W. H. V. Walker read poems composed by Mrs. Clarence McGee, of Peterboro.

Hymn, "Praise the Lord, Ye Heavens Adore Him" and The Mizpah Benediction closed this interesting meeting. Mrs. Hoard and Mrs. Dufee served a lovely lunch, and the thanks of the Society were expressed for their hospitality.

Reid, Allan's Mills' farmer late on Monday afternoon. Included in the loss are Mr. Reid's car, ensilage cutter, mower and quantities of pine lumber and clover seed.

Neighbours, observing the blaze, rushed to the scene of the fire and after considerable effort, prevented the flames from igniting the house and barn.

Whittin Family Holds Reunion

A picnic which had been planned by Mr. and Mrs. Thos. McCaughen for Searles' Beach, Oak Lake, on July 16th, was held at Harper Rollins' cottage, owing to the rain. Over thirty members of the Whittin family were present, representing four families of the older generation, Mary Ann Ketchen, Jas. Whittin, Rachel Lowery and Ellen Clancy.

Determination to overcome difficulties and whole-hearted generosity, two most important traits of the Whittin clan were most evident.

The sumptuous dinner was indeed a credit to those in charge. The minutest details had been arranged that each guest might share a real peace-time dinner. The afternoon was spent in most part by pleasant reminiscing. During the afternoon, too, Mrs. Percy Hubble sang a solo entitled, "Those Who Have Gone Before." Mrs. Jack McCaughen and Neil Hubble also sang solos, which were most appreciated.

The same committee who had prepared the dinner then set the tables for equally as good a supper. Truly good-will and friendship prevailed.

As President Truman said, "If we do not want to die together in war we must learn to live together in peace." The question is how to learn to live together. Families bound together in true friendship can be a great help to that so much desired end.

Those present from a distance were Mr. and Mrs. H. R. Lowery, Calgary, Alta.; Mr. Wm. Lowery, Turner Valley, Alta.; Mrs. Blanche Whittin Morris, Brandon, Manitoba; Miss Evelyn Whittin, Detroit; Mr. W. J. Whittin, Markdale; Mrs. Cynthia Tice, Belleville; Mr. A. E. Southworth, Frankford and Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Ford, of Frankford.

The presence of two families, Mr. and Mrs. Carleton Wright and Mr. and Mrs. Roscoe Wright, not members of the clan, but very close friends of the family, did much to heighten the pleasure of the day.

Mrs. Harold Morgan, of Harold, voiced the appreciation of the gathering to Mr. and Mrs. Rollins for the cottage, which brought to a close a very pleasant event.

Hildegarde Helliwell Weds Wm. Wilkins

"Elm Court," home of Dr. and Mrs. P. V. Helliwell, of Stirling, was the scene of a pretty summer wedding at 3.30 p.m. yesterday when their daughter, Hildegarde Margaret, became the bride of Mr. William Wilkins, of Halliburton, Ont., son of Mr. and Mrs. William Wilkins, Sr., of Thamesville, Ont. The ceremony was performed in the drawing-room by Rev. David Gray, of St. Paul's United Church, and the wedding music was played by Mr. G. L. Clute, organist of St. Paul's. Miss Margaret Gray was the soloist and sang, "O Promise Me" during the signing of the register.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride was charming in a gown of white satin made on princess lines with a long train. She wore a coronet finger-tip veil and carried a nosegay of red roses, white carnations and baby's breath.

Miss Jean Helliwell, of Oshawa, was her sister's bridesmaid, wearing a floor-length gown of turquoise net over satin, a coronet finger-tip veil of matching material and carried a nosegay of pink and white roses. The groom was assisted by his brother, Dr. George Wilkins, of Ottawa.

Following the ceremony a buffet luncheon was served after which the bride and groom left on a trip to Kingston and through the Thousand Islands.

Mr. and Mrs. Wilkins will reside at Halliburton.

Guests from out of town were, Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Wilkins, Thamesville; Dr. George Wilkins, of Ottawa; Miss Janet Millar, of Trenton; Mr. and Mrs. Grant Helliwell, of Toronto; Mrs. Robt. Bowdy and daughter, Renee, of Detroit, Mich., and Miss Jean Helliwell, of Oshawa.

INVESTIGATE BEFORE YOU INVEST

Before you invest—investigate, is the warning issued to ex-servicemen by the Better Business Bureau. There are several rackets designed to fleece servicemen of their gratuities, etc. Yes, and plenty of schemes to grab the savings of others as well. One thing is certain, these propositions will sound good. They have to seem plausible to get our money. Some may appear to be an opportunity for one to make a good profit, but unfortunately in too many deals the promoter is the only one to profit.

PREPARING FOR HARVEST

Every year a great deal of time is lost during the harvest season due to the failure of some part of the machinery. In addition to being annoyed these breakdowns frequently result in loss of yield and lower quality of the grain because the work is not done when it should have been. In many cases this trouble occurs because the machines are not properly checked over and repaired before being sent out to work. A little time spent repairing during a less busy season would have been very profitable.

Even though this machinery was operating in a satisfactory manner when put away last fall, a thorough check up will likely reveal many parts so badly worn that they wouldn't stand the strain of another season. New parts will have to be obtained to replace these. If orders for such are placed well in advance of the time they are needed it will avoid the last minute rush getting things ready.

This is particularly the case around smaller centres where machinery agents do not stock a full line of parts. Frequently some parts have to be taken to a blacksmith and if he gets them when he is not too busy he will be able to do more satisfactory work. On examination it is often found that expensive breaks have been caused by failure to replace some less costly part. These would have been eliminated, if a pre-season check up had been given, and the required replacements made.

IT'S UP TO YOUNG PEOPLE

Perhaps at this season more than any other parents and children are making plans for future activities, hence this advice is timely and to the point.

Young man or young woman, have you ever figured just how soon it may happen that you will be obliged to take care of yourself, and how you will do it?

Do you know that your school years are the best years of your life in the sense of receiving so much that means capital to you in later years?

If a man should hold out a million dollars worth of bonds to you and say the Government will present these bonds to you for the asking, you would be mighty foolish if you did not ask forthwith, wouldn't you?

Your education may be worth a million dollars to you if you make your own all the valuable information and fundamental principles which your teachers are paid and ready to impart.

You cannot afford to waste moments because they do mean so much of future capital if used rightly.

It is not so much the exact information you acquire as it is the habit of careful, concentrated study that you form, the habit of thought and reasonings which you cultivate, which will be valuable to you in after life.

Get all the knowledge you can while the getting is good. It will prove a valuable asset all through active life.

MEAT RATIONING

Meat rationing is coming back again. We have known rationing for some time now and it is not a new venture. We had meat rationing before. Many of the papers of the nation have been insistent in their demand that it be brought back again. Britain is desperately short of meat. Europe is starving and faces a winter of despair. Well, here it is, the meat rationing Canada asked for.

But the war in Europe is over and it is a different thing asking for meat rationing to help the poor Europeans or the meat-short British and actually going without meat. How gracefully will we in this country of full resources accept the role we must acknowledge as citizens of international responsibility? Will our people resolutely turn their backs on black markets? Will our city people week after week be prepared to see on their tables quantities of meat which they as Canadians consider inadequate? Will our farmers, justifiably proud of their privileges as free individuals, recognize the necessity for slaughtering control without which the system of meat rationing could not be properly maintained?

We are a big people in a country of growing power. This business of meat rationing can be a test of our adult qualities as a nation. If we grumble and let dull the edge of our enthusiasm to feed Britain—and what parts of Europe we may—then it won't be long before our grumbling will lead to strong dissatisfaction to black markets and all the underhand devices of a deceitful people too corrupt to do away with a law they are not willing to stand by. We have seen what happened to some parts of the world when war collapsed national economy. We have no such excuses in this country.

We will have meat rationing again. By and large we asked for it. Let's make it work.

CAUSES OF FARM FIRES

Because of the comparative isolation of most farms, an outbreak of fire is a terrifying experience to farm folk, and fire prevention is a constant thought in the farmer's mind. At the same time there is consolation in the dictum of the Fire Marshal of Nova Scotia, who has made special studies of farm fires and their origin. He says: "All fires start because of something that we do or something we have neglected to do." A study of farm fires indicates that there are at least 13 common causes for fires in rural areas says the Carleton Place Canadian.

They include:—chimneys of sub-standard construction; sparks from dirty chimneys; smoke pipes and stoves installed without regard to radiation of heat; seasonal grass and bush fires; spontaneous ignition of hay through dumping badly cured hay; worn-out shingle roofs; lighted lanterns; mis-use of electrical equipment; threshing operations with gasoline power; gasoline vehicles stored in barns; matches and smoking in outbuildings; trespass by thieves; and lighting.

With regard to spontaneous ignition of hay, most farmers are very careful in harvesting and storing the hay crop, but one crop of badly cured hay is a continual menace. In lubricants spontaneous ignition does not occur, whether the lubricant is soaking in rags or not, but they burn fast when ignited. Grease, wax and oils of vegetable origin when smeared or soaked in rags are definitely dangerous. The rags should not be allowed to lie about. If they are not disposed of by burning, they should be washed.

Gasoline has to be used, but great care should be taken, because gasoline under certain conditions is highly explosive. All filling operations should be done in daylight, and it is better to keep gasoline in a strong locked building remote from other buildings. Plenty of ventilation at floor level and above is necessary. A gasoline container should never be over-filled. Gasoline expands and forces its way outside the container.

For fire prevention on the farm it is recommended to have a roof ladder always at hand. Keep a few water buckets full and ready for use; also it is good to have a few barrels of water ready for instant use. Keep at least one standard 2 1-2 gallon soda acid fire extinguisher on the premises. In winter, keep the water buckets and fire extinguishers in a farm place.

The slogan "Brighten Up with Paint" has been practised by several of the business men in recent weeks with the result that the business section of the village is showing a decided improvement in appearance. H. C. Pitcher & Sons, the new Jewelry Store, Ward's Block, McGee's Warehouse and the Dominion Store are among places of business painted.

Lists of dates for all fairs to be held throughout the Province of Ontario this year have been compiled and are now available. The Stirling Agricultural Society has already met and made plans for the local Fair on September 24th and 25th, so it is not too early for the farmers of the community to be thinking of becoming a member of the Society and exhibiting their livestock and produce at the coming fair.

Meat Rationing has been resumed—the sugar ration has been cut—soap is becoming scarce—the beer situation is acute—the butter reserves are swinging low—the apple and other fruit crops are away below par—the fish are not biting too briskly—farm crops are more or less a failure—fuel is not too plentiful—and fat men are finding it difficult to buy wearing apparel to fit them. But cheer up, these are only temporary inconveniences—the European war is over and fighting in the Pacific is proving too much for the Japs. Things will adjust themselves in God's Good Time, so let us not complain too strongly—let us be thankful that conditions are not worse than they are, advises the Winchester Press.

What Others Say!

THAT'S ENOUGH

Have you ever noticed how many names of trees have only three letters? Here are a few as a starter: Ash, bay, bee, big, box, elm, fig, fir, gum, goa, haw, may, nut, oak, sal, tea and yew.—Life Magazine.

TOURIST REVIVAL

Easing of gasoline restrictions will enable many people to make a holiday trip this year if they have any tires to ride on. . . . This brings to prepare ourselves for a revival of mind the necessity of taking steps to tourist traffic.—Pembroke Bulletin.

THE CADET SYSTEM

Fortunately, in Ontario, opposition to the cadet movement on the flimsy ground that it smacks of militarism is fading out. Many of our finest soldiers in the present war received their first physical training on the public and high school campus, and the same applies in civil life to many of our greatest men.

BRITISH INTEGRITY

When a British businessman gives his word, it is the same as tendering his bond. This principle of honesty and integrity is what has made Britain great. Likewise, when the British nation undertakes certain obligations, it may be depended upon they will be carried out, if it is humanly possible to do so. It is for this reason that we declare proudly, "There'll always be a Britain", which means there will always be a champion of freedom and justice in the world. —Chatham News.

CURIOUS MISTAKES

There are plenty of mistakes in the newspapers these days. Even the proud and haughty big dailies, which used to have proof-readers working in pairs and reading everything by copy, have hundreds of errors in their early editions, though we suppose most of them are corrected before the late editions go out to city readers.

So common have typographical errors become that they do not arouse comment unless they are amusing or important. This paper has its share, of course. A few weeks ago, for instance, the first couple of hundred copies went out with an "In Memoriam" heading over the engagements. We trust it did not alarm too many of the prospective grooms. In the same issue one of the heading rules on the front page was turned upside down, giving rather a note of mourning to the page.

Another paper nearby recently got a bit of a ceremony in the Catholic church on the end of an item about a community auction sale, with the result that Harry Farr conducted the sale, a little boy carried the cushion and a girl the bouquet of flowers while Father Shea pronounced the benediction.

Back about V-E Day, the Globe and Mail contained an odd slip. It said that the Germans had been soundly beaten in the air on land and on the seat. Sounds rather appropriate at that.

But others besides editors and typesetters get tangled up in their words.

A soldier recently wrote to a Toronto paper to ask what steps he should take "to get passionate leave". First step, we'd say, would be to pick out the right type of girl.—Forgus News-Record.

"Self-Propelled"

Another Move Forward for Agriculture

New developments in machinery have always had a marked effect upon farming. The reaper, the binder, the tractor and power farming equipment, and the combine all have helped farmers do their work easier, quicker and more profitably.

The latest development in farm equipment, the self-propelled combine perfected by MASSEY-HARRIS prior to the war, has revolutionized harvesting. It has also opened up new possibilities to the implement engineer for developments in other types of farm machinery that will bring increased advantages in the saving of time and labor.

With the MASSEY-HARRIS self-propelled combine, one man with the grain tank model can harvest sixty acres and upwards in a day. Costs are less, too, because one motor operates the mechanism and propels the machine. Grain is saved, none being knocked down and shelled in opening the field. Anyone who can drive a car can learn to operate a self-propelled combine.

Good farm management employs the advantages of modern equipment to speed up the work, save labor, increase production and lower production costs. It is easier to farm profitably, with good equipment. Your local dealer will be glad to give you full particulars about the self-propelled combine and other machines in the MASSEY-HARRIS line engineered and built to meet the needs of modern farming.

NEWS FOR THE BUSY FARMER

SALT FOR SHEEP

Salt is necessary for sheep all the year round. Records indicate that each sheep eats about one-quarter ounce of salt per day. If they can get it. They do not obtain enough salt when it is supplied in block form. All stock salt should contain iodine. If iodised salt is not procurable, potassium iodide should be added to the salt.

WEED CONTROL

An eight-year mixed farming rotation over a period of years on the Dominion Illustration Station farms in northern and eastern Manitoba has reduced wild oats, sowthistle, mustards, stinkweed, and other annual weeds to a point where they are no longer a menace. The sequence of crops in this rotation is—summerfallow, grain, grain, hay pasture, sod fallow, grain, grain. Pasturing for one year in eight is proving one of the most effectual practices for weed control.

CHECK FARM LABOUR

Owing to the fact that the need for maintaining food production at high level is still very great and that farmers are still in urgent need of men, suspension of call-up under National Selective Service regulations does not mean that men on postponement of military training for employment in agriculture are now free to engage in other industry.

Instructions have been sent to local employment offices that any man on postponement to engage in agriculture who is working in another industry, is to be compulsorily directed back to the farm job.

VALUE OF CANADA'S POULTRY PROGRAM

Much has been written about the commercial significance of genetical science in plant breeding, but not so much has been demonstrated about its commercial worth in animal breeding. Canada has been following a national poultry breeding program for over a quarter of a century. The R. O. P. (Record of Performance) policy for poultry was actually started in 1919. It has been announced six years earlier but the intervention of the First World War caused its postponement.

The three considerations which form the basis of Canada's national poultry breeding program are: (a), record of performance for poultry; (b), flock approval, and (c), hatchery approval. The application of these policies was first given world-wide demonstration at the World's poultry Congress in London, England, in 1930, and have proved standards ever since for other nations.

WANT OF WATER MEANS LESS EGGS

Water for hens is an important item in egg production, particularly during hot weather. Hens require an abundance of clean, fresh water before them at all times, and especially at laying time—the early morning and afternoon. Hens have no sweat glands. They depend on their lungs to throw off body moisture. Prolonged lack of water entails parched lungs and suffering.

Lack of sufficient fresh water results in lowered egg production, and egg quality is lowered when hens are forced to drink dirty stagnant water. A hen seeks a drink of water the first thing after leaving a nest and she will drink more water when it is kept fresh than when it is changed only once a day. Every egg is wanted to meet the demand.

IMPURE QUALITY OF CANADIAN WOOL

The wool bonus of 4 cents per lb. to Canadian wool growers, provided fleeces are properly prepared for market applies for the third consecutive season in all provinces except Manitoba. All Registered Warehouses report that a vast improvement has taken place in the removal and separate packing of such disqualifying rejects as tags, chaffy necks and backs, and burry bellies. As an illustration of what is being done by the grower, a recent analysis at one warehouse of 1,007 Ontario clips showed 488 clean clips, 312 clips where the grower had separated the rejects at shearing time and 207 clips where the tags, chaffy, or burry portions had to be removed at time of grading.

A specific instance is cited of one Ontario sheep owner who had 100 lb. of heavy chaffy and 12 lb. of tags in 1944 from a total net weight of 563 lb. but, learning how to correct the situation, he returned with his 1945 clip showing not a single pound of reject wool, and out of 575 lb., almost 200 lb. of it was classed as "Special Selection." The increased net return was $26.64 or almost 5 cents per pound.

PAGING MR. HEPBURN

Here is one for Mitch. Hepburn to beat and he'll have to do some tall talking to do it. An onion over five feet high and grown in the garden of W. G. Hornick, is on display in The News' office window. There are five ordinary-sized onions in a cluster at the top of the stalk. What a lot of tears in one onion stalk.—Tweed News.

By the end of 1945, the war will have cost every Canadian an estimated $1300.

Questions and Answers

This column is sponsored by the Regional Office, Wartime Prices and Trade Board. Questions on price control, ration regulations and other Wartime Prices and Trade Board rulings should be mailed to the Information Branch, Wartime Prices and Trade Board, Victoria Building, Brockville.

Q. Would it be possible to get a ration book for a man returning from overseas so that extra supplies could be purchased before his arrival?

A. Sorry—it would not be possible to obtain a ration book for him until he arrives—an application for a civilian ration book is given to each serviceman and woman being demobilized. When he fills in this application and either takes or mails it to the nearest Local Ration Board, he will receive his book—it is taken for granted that he will be supplied with army rations until he reaches his home and will not require civilian rations until then.

Q. Is it correct that each preserves coupon is worth only half a pound of sugar?

A. Yes—this is correct. A preserves coupon is good for the purchase of half a pound of sugar. A sugar coupon is good for the purchase of one pound.

Q. Is it against the regulations to sell a dress without labels or price tag?

A. Yes, it certainly is. Since May 15 it is against the regulations for a retailer to sell such an item without a label. The label or tag should contain the manufacturer's WPTB license number, the line number and size. This regulations was put into effect by the Board to guard against degradation of quality.

Q. How many coupons are the owners of a camp allowed to remove from a ration book.

A. None. Unless you stay for four weeks or longer. For each four week period they are permitted to remove one sugar coupon, 2 preserves coupons and 3 butter coupons.

ROOSEVELT'S DEATH NO SURPRISE

In a recent issue of the Globe and Mail in "Circle Bar" Fourth Column which is edited by J. V. McAree, a clever Toronto columnist, appears the following comment relative to the death of the American President:

While the news of President Roosevelt's death came as a staggering shock to the world generally, it seems likely that those of the inner circle, especially those charged with the care of his health, were not taken by surprise. We have seen no mention of the fact in the Canadian press, but American papers are now able to report that the President had an almost fatal seizure at his home in Hyde Park 19 days before his death.

In fact it was the severity of this stroke that caused his removal to Hot Springs in the hope that in these surroundings he might regain his strength. To some extent he did, for he was able to see friends and transact business until an hour or so before the final blow fell upon him. Reasons of wartime security forbade any reference to the Hyde Park stroke, though it was known to a considerable number of people.

Six years earlier the President, when visiting the Mayo clinic in Minnesota where his son was undergoing an operation, had a slight stroke, which ruptured a small capillary in his brain. This was a danger signal. It told his doctors, if not the President himself, the manner of his death when ever it should come. In the intervening years he endured several strokes, including a severe one in 1943. It adds to our deep respect for a great man to know that for years he carried his tremendous burden under the ever-present shadow of sudden death.

Rationing helps the FARMER

HERE'S HOW!

- Rationing assures everyone a fair share of scarce foods. Without rationing, farmers might get all the butter they need; they might not get sugar. City dwellers might get sugar but no butter.
- Rationing helps to keep prices steady.
- Rationing has assured farmers sufficient ammunition to protect their crops and livestock.
- Rationing makes it possible for farmers to get coupons to feed harvesters and other transient farm workers.

The FARMER helps Rationing HERE'S HOW!

- By collecting and turning in the coupons acquired against the use and sale of butter and the sale of honey and rationed maple products.
- By writing to the Local Ration Boards for application form RB-77 as SOON as they know definitely that transient labour rations will be needed to feed extra help hired for periods of less than two weeks.

Rationing is not intended to add unnecessarily to the burden of Canadian farmers who, faced with shortages of labour, materials and machinery, have continued to respond to repeated calls for greater production.

It is a protection against waste . . . shortages . . . inflation.

W. M. S. Entertain Mission Band and Baby Band

The July meeting of Mt. Pleasant Rawdon Woman's Missionary Society was held at the church on Wednesday, July 11th, with over sixty in attendance. This was the annual family party, when the W.M.S. entertained the Mission Band and the Baby Band.

The service opened with quiet music, played by Mrs. Ross Hoard. Mrs. T. F. Townsend read a poem on "Peace" and fourteen members answered Roll Call. Pictures of Indian girls at Phil Hills Residential School and a Baby Band Scrap Book were on display.

Mrs. Sid Demorest, superintendent of the Baby Band presided over a special worship service when nine children graduated from the Baby Band to the Mission Band. These were Lola and Marilyn McConnell, Ina Scott, Malcolm Reid, Eleanor Smith, Margaret and Mary Johnson, Grace Stone and Wayne Taylor.

The story of the gift boxes was read and suitable hymns sung, with Miss Lois Weaver as accompanist. The Baby Band now has a membership of twenty babies and this list was read and their gift boxes will be received at Christmas. The nine who graduated were welcomed to the Mission Band where a fee of ten cents covers their enrollment. The mothers present with their babies were Mrs. Carleton Potts, Mrs. Ira David, Mrs. Harry McAdam, Mrs. Don Johnson, Mrs. Merle Spencer, Mrs. Allan Reid, Mrs. Clarence Scott and Mrs. Norman McConnell.

Miss Eleanor Johnson presided over the Mission Band programme and Miss Betty McConnell was pianist. Roy Sharp read the Bible Lesson and Grace Dunham gave the prayer.

Mrs. Lindsay McKeown gave the worship story about "Mike and How

He Overcome Dishonesty."

The offering was gathered by Shirley McKeown and Joan Johnson. The W.M.S. envelopes were 5.30. Loose Collection $1.55, for Baby Band and $1.60 for Mission Band.

Miss Marguerite Stone read the minutes and called the membership roll. Mrs. S. Demorest as treasurer, reported thirteen dollars to date.

Mrs. Cyrus Summers gave the Study Story on "Temperance", which had been prepared by the leader, Mrs. Bert Jeffs. The subject was "The Marketing Basket", and special drawings portrayed the value of bread, meat, groceries and milk in comparison to beer. Mrs. Summers also explained to the mothers and children that it is necessary for the children to pay the leader or treasurer ten cents in order to become a Mission Band member each year. It is advisable that all fees be paid by Easter each year but there is still time to become a member for 1945.

Miss Ruth Linn contributed a piano solo.

Mrs. Merle Spencer read a chapter from Tommy Two-Wheels, entitled, "America Isn't Always Fair."

Misses Ruth Sharp and Ruth Dunham sang, "Jesus Bids us Shine."

Mrs. Townsend presented the officers of the Mission Band with their Presbyterian award for 1944. For seven consecutive years Mount Pleasant Rawdon Mission Band have measured up to the Presbyterian standard, having ten meetings each year, meeting their allocation and having splendid worship services under the capable leadership of Mrs. Cyrus Summers, who retired from office in December, 1944.

The award was a lovely certificate for the sixth year and a green seal for the seventh year and will be framed and hung in the church beside the preceding five awards. The pastor offered a special prayer that the Mission Band might continue to win awards under their new leadership.

The August meeting will be in charge of the vice-president, Mrs. P. MacMullen, as the pastor and his wife will be on holidays.

The group then repaired to the church hall where several W. M. S. ladies served sandwiches and cookies, and all enjoyed a social half-hour.

Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Spencer and daughter, Marion, and her friend, Miss Betty Adje, Toronto, accompanied by Mr. and Mrs. Frank Spencer, who have been holidaying in the city spent the week-end with Mr. and Mrs. Merle Spencer.

Feed SHUR-GAIN Hog Concentrate for Bigger Profits

Hog Producers are aware that there is more to hog production than grain feeding alone. Wise farmers have come to recognize the fact that it takes 1100 lbs of straight grain, to finish a hog in 7 1/2 to 8 months of feeding. But when only 50 lbs. of SHUR-GAIN 41% Hog Concentrate is added to their ration, only 650 lbs. of grain, are needed, and hogs finish better, with higher grades in only 5 1/2 to 6 months.

You save weeks of feeding, you save 450 lbs. of grain, and you save many hours of work per hog, by feeding them the balanced, SHUR-GAIN Way! And you'll like the way your hogs grade out! When supplies of kapok for life rafts were cut off, a chemist at Canada's National Research Council devised a very satisfactory substitute utilizing cattail floes.

CAPT. RUTHERFORD

RETIRETS TO FARM

Capt. Charles S. Rutherford, of Colborne, Ont., the only man in Canada to win the coveted Victoria Cross, the Military Cross and the Military Medal, has recently retired from service with the Canadian Army at Royal Military College, Kingston.

During the First Great War, when he won the V.C., Capt. Rutherford enlisted as a private with the Queen's Own Rifles, and gained his commission in the field. He enlisted again at the beginning of the second Great War, serving with the Veteran's Guard of Canada at Home and in British West Indies. He has been on the staff of Royal Military College for the past year.

Capt. Rutherford intends to resume dairy and fruit farming at his home near Colborne. A son, Andrew, is a pilot with the R. C. A. F. Miss Isabel Rutherford, a daughter, is teaching at Castleton, and two other daughters are living at home.

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Bush, Olive and Marion called at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Ray Bush, on Wednesday evening.

About 500 Citizens' Committee have been formed all across Canada to look after the problems of returning service personnel.

"Glorious Twelfth" Held at Marmora

Cloudy skies were no deterrent to lodges and friends of the Orange Order who had planned to attend the Centre Hastings celebration at the Marmora Exhibition Grounds, Thursday. The results was that about three thousand persons took in the event. Twenty-five lodges were on parade and approximately 500 members of the Order took in the march. The presence of returning soldiers in the ranks of the brethren lent color to the parade.

Veteran Marchers

Many veterans of the Order were mingled in the crowd and 14 of these were approached for particulars of their length of membership. Edward Benson of Beulah L. O. L. 435 has been a member for 52 years and is probably the oldest member of that lodge.

Edward Luffman, 88 years of age, wore the badge of Bogart L. O. L. 1135 and looks back over 58 years of membership. He said he had missed very few walks in that time. John Lynn, of Queensboro L. O. L. 437, a member for 63 years, said he had perhaps missed three celebrations.

Sam Rollins, of Tweed, now 84 years of age, joined the Order at Ivanhoe 66 years ago and has never missed a celebration. Thomas Potts, the oldest member of Marmora L. O. L. 319 has been a member of the Order for 49 years, and has walked 47 times. Thomas Campion, first Master of Marmora Lodge, whose warrant goes back to September 22, 1851, and who was returned to the Master's chair later on in the history of the Lodge, initiated Thomas Potts.

The oldest member of Downey L. O. L. 425, Elijah Ash joined the Orange Order 53 years ago and has missed only three parades. William K. Long holds the palm for longest membership in Nickle L. O. L. No. 285. He, too, has missed three parades. William Hagerman, whose father, Benjamin Hagerman, of the 6th Concession of Rawdon township, was also an outstanding Orangeman in his day, is now 88 years of age and has been a member for 63 years. His family is of Yorkshair descent and he rejoices that he has never missed the annual celebration. David Seabrook was among the veterans of Havelock L. O. L. 326. A member for 55 years, he has only missed a few celebrations.

Member 55 years

Sixty-five years of membership is claimed by Charles Sargent, 86, now a member of Plainfield L. O. L. 295, but who was initiated in Frankford. He, too, only missed about three celebrations in his long membership. Richard York, 85, of Foxboro L. O. L. 3, was present as the lodge's oldest member, but was not available in the interviewing period.

Edward Blakely, of Eldorado L.O.L. 517, as the lodge's oldest member, prides himself on 55 years of membership. Calvin Youmans, 92, of Cordona, has not only more than 70 years of membership but also has seven sons and one daughter and two sons-in-law in the order. Lastly, Robert Eggleton, 89, of Stirling L.O.L. 110, who completes seventy years of membership this year, could also claim that he has never missed a walk.

Following the parade, brief addresses were heard. County Master Charles Keene, was chairman. Following his words of greeting, he asked Reeve W. R. Linn to extend a welcome. Past County Master W. J. Cottrell, spoke briefly thanking the large gathering for their presence on behalf of L. O. L. 319. Rev. E. M. Cardigan, spoke on the value of religion in the home and community life. George White, M. P., referred to the part the Hastings and Prince Edward Regiment had played in this war and the good sized contribution of Orangemen to the fighting forces. He also touched upon rehabilitation and scored the proposed change of the national flag. Rev. T. Porter Bennett, who has spent many years in Nebraska since joining the Orange Order at Halloway, said that we need to exemplify the spirit of love for all mankind or another war will threaten us.

Other Speakers

W. E. Tammon, ex. M. P. and Past Grand Master of Ontario East spoke on "What do we mean by those symbols on the badges we are displaying today?"

At this juncture, Bro. Robert Eggleton of Stirling, representing the older brethren present, gave a short speech. Rev. F. C. Beaver, of Roslin, Grand Chaplain of Ontario East, sounded the note of religious tolerance. The last speaker Richard Arnott ex-M. P. P. brought one main thought to his hearers. "If we as a nation could put forth such an effort as to help win the war in Europe, then the Orange Order could show leadership in winning the peace."

Award Prizes

Before the program closed, Rev. F. C. Beaver offered an invocation on behalf of the lives of Orangemen laid down and for God's blessing on those who will be fighting in the Pacific theatre of war. Prizes for best men's and ladies' lodges on parade went to Eldorado L. O. L. 517 and Stirling L.O.B.A. 655.

A men's softball tournament for the J. R. Cooke Cup was held in course of the day. In the first game Bonarlaw defeated Eldorado by the score of 10-7. The second game was played between Marmora and a team of all-Stars which substituted for Madoc in the latter team's absence. The All Stars won a close game by 2-0. In the final the All Stars subdued Bonarlaw 12-3.

Conclave of Canada's Leaders

With a number of constitutional and financial problems assuming greater importance day by day, the need for the Dominion Provincial conference being held as soon as possible is now apparent to officialdom which is extremely busy with preparations for this gathering on August 6 next. Indeed, a further sign of the anxiety is the report in this capital that already high ranking officials have held meetings with a view to study comparative statistics of Dominion-Provincial relationships, with this meeting or meetings said to have been quite satisfactory. Moreover, it is known that some of the problems which may be considered at this coming Dominion-Provincial Conference may include issues over taxation, old age pensions, health insurance, employment and others which require Dominion-Provincial co-operation to a greater or lesser extent, especially bearing in mind that some provinces are poorer than others so that these authorities may not be able to assume financial responsibilities to a somewhat high degree unless their sources of revenues are increased. Nevertheless, regardless of each problem the principal objective, as hinted in well-informed circles in Ottawa, is to avoid the Conference from suffering "an untimely death," as happened in 1914 since it would be extremely tragic for the taxpayers of Canada if this occurred in 1945 on account of the multiplicity and seriousness of issues involved. In 1941, the late Premier William Aberhart, of Alberta, the former Premier Mitchell Hepburn of Ontario and Pattula of British Columbia proved to be stumbling blocks on the road towards Dominion-Provincial Co-operation though they will not be present at this gathering.

A deep interest has developed in "inner" political circles in Ottawa over the likely effects of a number of recounts in certain constituencies as a result of close voting totals in the last general elections since two Ministers' seats may be at stake. If these create more Cabinet casualties, then the reorganization of the Cabinet may be delayed because legal proceedings can be postponed or deferred for considerable time under various circumstances. Then again, there is a story heard in Ottawa that political "dark horses" may enter into the picture of the new Cabinet reorganization, with the suggestion offered by veteran politicians on Parliament Hill that surprises may be forthcoming in changes, particularly as these concern the defence portfolios and the so-called "Independents" which number about 15, mainly from Quebec where a mild form of political chaos has existed for some months.

More Troubles
While previously farmers had suffered heavily in many sections of this country through the freak or varying moods of the weather, yet following a betterment in this direction they are now reported in Ottawa as enduring terrible hardships on the score of labor troubles because not only is good help not available in sufficient numbers but the psychological mood of workers is providing bad heartaches for them. According to information in this capital, farmers cannot induce countless men from expecting the same abnormal high wages given them in war work during the last few years, though the wages offered by the farmers are the highest possible (continued on page seven)

Hello, Homemakers! No matter how busy we have been recently, the picnic day finds everybody full of vim, vigour, and appetite. It's usually the homemaker who has to satisfy the hunger pertaining to this pleasure—lots of good food. Of course, we begin a couple of days ahead to purchase supplies—meat, bread, butter, salad ingredients, and sandwich fillings, so that the day in question finds us well prepared.

If the meat has to be cooked, do so the previous day. To make butter go further, cream the pound of butter, thoroughly and beat in a cup of top milk, add salt, then chill. Salad dressing should be tasty and fairly thick for this meal. Drop cookies or a large cake makes a good dessert along with some fruit. You can also include an iced beverage depending on your family's taste.

A simple repast: Meat loaf or jellyed veal or just plain bologna with a dish of savoury, potato salad, thick jellyed tomatoes, lettuce, and some of mother's tangy pickle relish, followed by generous sized fruit turnovers of rhubarb, apple, berries, or some filling off the jam shelf will satisfy the most demanding appetite.

Appetizing sandwich fillings:—Whatever you do don't be sparing with the fillings, and don't make them too moist. Some appetizing fillings include:

- (1) Minced beef with a little onion juice and salad dressing.
- (2) Minced cooked liver with mustard dressing.
- (3) Chopped hard-cooked eggs, green pepper, and salad dressing.
- (4) Chopped hard-cooked eggs with celery or grated carrot.
- (5) Cheese with chives, nuts, peanut butter, minced vegetables, marmalade, honey or jam.
- (6) Mashed baked beans with chili sauce.
- (7) Crumbled leftover meat loaf with creamed horseradish.
- (8) Leftover cooked fish with chopped celery, sweet pickle, moistened with mayonnaise.

TAKE A TIP

1. Leather goods need every care—they're scarce and those we have require regular attention. If they're damp, stuff with paper and leave to dry. Brush thoroughly. Use a cleaner to prevent dryness or cracking.
2. The printed linoleum on our kitchen floor was in good condition except for a worn spot in front of the sink. We cut out a semi-circular piece of the worn printed linoleum and cemented in a piece of harmonized ing solid colour instead of trying to match the pattern.

3. If your pottery vases and bowls don't fit into your colour scheme, paint them with cold water paint. Once the paint is thoroughly set, you'll find that water will not affect the finish if the water is changed every day.

4. To make a sturdy, effective shade for small plants and seedlings, cut the bottom off quart milk cartons and fit the cartons over the plants, pressing the edges well down into the earth.

THE QUESTION BOX

Mrs. J. M. asks: How to prevent strawberries from floating to the top of the jar?

Answer: This is one fruit which should be prepared for canning, then brought to a boil, cooled for an hour, then bottled and processed for an hour, then bottled and processed for the required length of time, according to the method used. (Electric oven at 275 degrees for 15 mins.)

Mrs. M. T. asks: Recipe for inexpensive salad dressing for raw vegetables.

Salad Dressing: Into the top of a double boiler put 4 lightly beaten eggs

3-4 cup granulated sugar blended with 2 tbsps. flour, 4 tbsps. mustard, and 1-2 tsp. salt. Blend well and stir in 1 cupful of mild vinegar. Cook over hot water until thick. Cool and store in glass jar in electric refrigerator.

When using the dressing, thin it with cream, plain or whipped. For a cabbage salad, we often use sour cream when it's on hand. Cut down the amount of mustard if you prefer less tang. Try adding a pinch of curry when using it for devilled eggs or a meat salad.

TRENTON WANTS MAIL DELIVERY

The town of Trenton, which boasts of a population of 10,000 is now asking the Post Office Department for mail delivery in the town. A resolution to that effect was passed at the last meeting of Trenton Town Council.

A teacher noticed one boy in her class who always came to school very dirty, and she decided to write a note to his mother asking her to do something about it. A few days later the boy came to school just as dirty and carrying a letter from his mother, which said:

"Dear Miss — I know my boy ain't exactly violet, but I send to school for you to learn him, not to smell him."

SO LITTLE CHILDREN MAY PLAY ONCE AGAIN

Everywhere in Ontario are little children, once crippled, who now walk—thanks to successful surgical and hospital care at The Hospital for Sick Children.

MOLLY'S SON

BY HARRY M. MOORE

A Story of Harness Horse Racing in the Early 1900's
(All Rights Reserved)

CHAPTER V

It was two nights later. Benny Bannerman led the crippled Molly up "Horse" McKenny's lane after making a slow detour around the village.

As the boy and his mare approached "Horse" McKenny got up from the front steps, where he had been watching, and with lighted lantern he showed the way into a box stall in his barn.

Benny slipped off Molly's bridle and hung it on a harness peg.

"Well, there she is," he said. "Took me a long time to get here. She's plenty lame . . ."

"Lame is not the word for it," "Horse" held up the lantern to inspect the mare's side. "Molly's been hurt, badly hurt. There are all three of the caulk marks, and they're deep, too. . . . He ran his hand across the mare's side toward the wound and only let up when the mare's tail switched. "Yes," he repeated, "she's hurt, but I dunno, I wouldn't say she's done . . ."

"You mean—"

"I don't mean what you're thinking about," Horse interrupted. "Molly will never race again. That much is sure. A kick like that in the stifle joint will leave her sore and stiff, but that won't prevent her from breeding. Y'see, all this hurt is far from where she lives," he pointed to her breast. "Her legs are sound as ever, and she's not too old. The trouble is all in this joint. Once those cuts heal, and when I get more time I'll attend to them as I have my own stuff to use, Bill Moran may be sorry he gave her away. We'll leave her right here in the barn until it gets warmer outside and then I'll put her in the field back of the barn with the goat for company. You'll be around to see her, of course?"

"Yes," Benny said, "I'll come over every night and morning at least. Can't very well get away from the shop in working hours now that we're so busy."

"What did T. B. say when you told him that Moran had given the mare to you?"

"Oh, he just said 'there goes the makings of a good blacksmith,' He thinks I'll be quitting the trade and following the footsteps of you and Bill Moran and a lot of others."

"Horse" McKenny curled an end of his heavy moustache with his thumb and finger.

"It's not for me to say what you should do," "Horse" said at last. "Horse racing's a tough game and there's little money in it unless you have a good one. I've driven the Grand Circuit from one end to the other and I should know. Yet, if a man has a good horse and can do the driving himself, I wouldn't be advising him to sit around home picking up the small change we have on the tracks here. Of course, when I say a good horse, I mean one that will stand the gaff. The Grand Circuit is no place for cripples and I never saw a horse there that wasn't sound in wind and limb." He stopped and corrected himself. "Yes, I saw one, a real cripple, and she was a dandy. Her name was Annie Lee and I met up with her first at Grand Rapids, Mich. Annie Lee was brown and she was a pacer and she stood just a little over fourteen hands. She had the legs that Doc Brisco is always talking about, 'the worst in the world,' and when not racing she was lying down. Hitched to one of those new rubber-tired bikes she was a beauty, and a beauty in horse racing talk is a tough baby. Annie Lee was good for a race every third day. When I saw her last she had a mark of twelve.

"Now this here Molly," he turned to the mare, "she shoulda been on the Grand Circuit. I coaxed Bill several times to take her down but I could never phase him. Why, she'd made a fortune for him. No gamer piece of racing machinery was ever put together by the good Lord Himself. And I should know. I thought Peterkin would take her, and you know what happened. I brought in that grey stud Corporal White and it was the same. When she was at her best, she just couldn't be beaten, and that seemed to be all the time, as far as I was concerned," he added with a wry face. He secured a fork and brought some hay into the stall. For a minute he stood and watched Molly feed, and turning to Benny, he said, "She'll do; she'll be all right. . . . in time. Leave that to me."

It was a proud Benny Bannerman who left "Horse" McKenny's barn that night. With "Horse" on his side to help him, there was nothing to worry about.

But Benny Bannerman was to learn, later it was true, that there were others who had the same ideas about his mare as he and "Horse" McKenny had. Those men were T. B. Telfer and Doc Brisco. That their plans for the mare, in the event that she rounded into any shape at all, were kept carefully from him was due no doubt to his youth, and only for elders to know. Bill Moran was let into the secret and he had said, "May God love you for that! Sir, it's worth trying. Let's do it."

Night and morning and every day during the summer Benny Bannerman spent every available minute with his mare. The wounds readily responded to treatment and in an amazingly short time were healed. "Horse" McKenny's cure-all was doing wonders. Molly continued to limp but the old soreness was gone.

By early fall, Benny was able to hitch his mare to "Horse" McKenny's buggy and take his mother and little sister out for a drive around the village. But it was evident that as a race horse, Molly was definitely through. She could not trot a lick without ending up dead lame, but she was getting too fat and the exercise, no matter how little, was good for her.

Midsummer and the races had passed. Grand Boy and the other crack trotters and pacers were filling the sports pages of the city papers with their exploits on the Grand Circuit. In the Holmesville district, farmer-horse owners were taking time out from their harvest to prepare their horses for the fall meeting.

Benny had the opportunity to do a lot of driving on the speedway that late summer, even though Molly was his first consideration. Very often he would drive her to the speedway and, turning her over to Pat Warren, the black-haired daughter of the stable boss, he would mount a jogging cart and give some horseman a respite. Other times, and often with Pat by his side, he would just sit in the buggy and watch the horses being put through their paces.

Whether driving or just sitting there, Benny's desire to have a good race horse of his own grew and grew. Down in his heart he wanted above all things to be a horse trainer and reinsman. He wanted a good horse, a good tough horse, that he could take down on the Grand Circuit and meet some of the bearcats that "Horse" McKenny had been telling him so much about.

However, a manufacturer in Detroit Michigan, was starting to turn out a motor car and these motor cars would soon be taking the place of horses. Benny wondered about that, too. And if the horses were to be crowded out, what was going to be the future for a blacksmith?

The first of these motor cars came into Holmesville late in September for the fall races and it created a tremendous sensation. The man demonstrating this strange contraption was charging a small fee for a ride in this thing with its shiny brass accoutrements and no end of noise. And Benny Bannerman was often to think about that first car and what its coming was to mean to him.

The first day of the fall meeting was a holiday in the blacksmith shop, which meant that Benny had the day off to do what he pleased. He spent the morning giving Molly an extra brushing up and did not neglect buggy and harness. After dinner, slicked up in the best clothes he possessed, he drove out to McKenny Lane to pick up Pat Warren and take her to the speedway.

As he drove proudly toward the village he saw an advancing cloud of dust which told him that the motor car was coming to meet him at all of twenty miles an hour. His brows gathered and he tightened the reins on Molly. Molly had never met a motor car and it was a question as to how she was going to react.

It did not take Benny Bannerman long to find out. Molly became uncontrollable, dumped him into the ditch, broke the buggy shafts and cut herself severely in the side.

Benny came out of the accident with a ruined suit and a number of lacerations to face, hands and body.

The driver of the car took him to the village doctor, while "Horse" McKenny, who saw the whole thing from his veranda, raced across the field and took the badly injured Molly back to the box stall and put in a call for Doc Brisco.

Benny was laid up at his home for a week. When he recovered sufficiently he was back at the McKenny farm. Even then he had no inkling of what the future held for his mare. That thing called Fate, a fate that had treated Molly so generously all her racing producing years, had apparently turned against her, and if she hadn't been crippled before, she certainly was crippled now.

To T. F. Telfer the news of Benny's accident was bad enough, but when he heard of what had happened to the little mare he was clearly upset. Doc Brisco had little to offer to counterbalance the grave fears of the blacksmith.

Molly saw the pasture field or the open sky very little that fall. By the time the snow came she was an invalid in her stall, an invalid who was getting the best possible care.

And then came that severe storm in late December, the night that she dropped her foal, the night she died. Two mornings later it took the folks a day to get the roads open again. Molly was drawn to a back field to be properly buried just as soon as the weather permitted.

Bill Moran and his wife Molly were there, and so was Benny Bannerman, Doc Brisco, "Horse" McKenny and the others. Little was said by anybody, and when it was over they gathered around the box stall in the barn.

The horsemen to a man, and there were many veterans among them, talked about Molly's colt. They shook their heads and turned away. But the words that were not spoken were the words in the minds of every one of them:

"There will never be another Molly."

which the farmers can afford. Indeed, in some cases, it is impossible to get such farm help and all this is happening at a time when there is a crying need for more and more farm products.

Demand for Inquiry

There is much comment along Parliament Hill at this time about the demand by a high official of the C.C.F. for a Royal Commission inquiry into the operations of an organization which, it is alleged, had supposedly spent "hundreds of thousands of dollars during the last general election campaign" on publicity in order to learn whether large businesses were evading income and excess profits tax by making "political contributions through an association which set itself up as a public relations agent." This high official of the C. C. F. declared in part in a speech in the capital that such an inquiry should be held, asking in emphatic language: "What is this but an invitation to business to make political contributions in such a way as to evade taxation?"

Story Behind the Story

Notwithstanding all rumours to the contrary, this veteran observer had reported for a long time now that meat rationing was forthcoming in Canada so that present preparations for such a rationing policy provided no surprise for readers of this column. However, it should be added that it has been hinted backstage on Parliament Hill, that the reintroduction of meat rationing had been opposed in some quarters in Ottawa on the basis of an argument that there was no certainty that such a rationing policy would definitely create more meat for export or less for consumption even if the administration of this rationing might prove most difficult in the end as predicted. Then again, it is pointed out on Parliament Hill that, in face of all arguments favouring such a policy of meat rationing for Canada on the part of the United States, yet the experience of a similar desire in United States for adding other rationing policies in Canada has not been a happy event, with the reference being to footwear. Ever since footwear has been rationed in the United States, there have been loud demands that Canada ought to follow the same road. Nevertheless, the best information in Ottawa has shown that there are enough shoes for everyone in Canada without any real rationing policy. Indeed, in the past year, Americans used an average of three-quarters of a pair of shoes more per capita than Canadians, though United States went to all the trouble of rationing and there was no such restrictions in Canada, with Americans in the past year actually using one and three-quarter pairs of shoes more than Canadians. It is a lesson worth remembering.

Unwarranted Publicity
There has been considerable unwarranted adverse publicity against Canadian mining interests lately, especially "general accusations" against a whole industry, so it is essential to report that intelligent people outside of this country have not been gullible to these general accusations, holding properly, as evidence indicates in this capital, that, Canada is a land second to none in its untold wealth of natural resources and industrial genius. In fact, this has been given world-wide recognition in other countries on countless occasions in the past and the contributions of Canada's mines have received strong emphasis in official statements about the role played by Canada's production from her mines in the ultimate success of the United Nations in both World War I and II. Once again this has been brought into the limelight in Ottawa where it has become known that three representatives of the Chinese Government, W. T. Hu, C. Y. Li and Y. C. Cheng, have been assigned to study and to investigate the great Canadian mining industry with the visit of these three official representatives to the Chinese Ambassador in Ottawa, Dr. Liu Shih Shun, bringing out this fact in the capital.

A Hint of Things to Come

It is hinted in usually well-informed quarters on Parliament Hill that, though here and there some jobs may be open from time to time in the Civil Service during the coming weeks or months, yet it would prove no surprise whatsoever if the height of employment demands or requirements in this respect will be passed by that time. In short, this means that less and less jobs will be available in the Civil Service after this summer has passed, with this being interpreted as a hint of things to come perhaps in employment generally as conditions return to normal.

Weekly Wind-Up

Canada's Under-Secretary of State, Dr. E. H. Coleman, has returned to Ottawa after a month's absence abroad on official business. . . . It is stressed in the capital that, if any action should be taken in the United States to bring about the St. Lawrence Seaway and Power Project as rumoured lately, this would have to be approved by Canada's Parliament before anything official is done. . . .

Not only was the Canadian Army responsible for the liberation in part of her homeland but Canada was the home during the war of her three little daughters and herself.

but the reason you can't talk over your telephone is because there's lots more to telephoning than the instrument itself. It takes wire and cable and complicated exchange equipment and a mass of other apparatus to link one telephone with the million other telephones which make up the Bell system. These telephone materials have been going to war. That's why so many people are waiting for telephone service today.

It will take time and money and manpower to carry out the large-scale construction and improvement program we've planned for after the war.

Take our dial conversion program alone: Almost three-quarters of the telephones in service are now of the dial type. But that still leaves thousands of telephones and exchange equipment in scores of communities, to be changed over.

After the war when equipment is again obtainable, the job will take years to complete. And this is just one of several projects which spell jobs not only for all our present employees both at home and overseas but for additional workers, too.

WAREHOUSE FEE CHARGE OF 3 CENTS TO BE PAID

Following an hour's discussion on the subject, members of Belleville Cheese Board Thursday night voted to pay three cents per box warehousing charge asked by Belleville cheese warehousemen for cheese passing through their plants prior to shipment to Montreal.

The three cents per box charge had been asked at the last meeting of the Belleville Cheese Board, but factory salesmen considered the charge was not their responsibility and appointed a committee to investigate the matter.

Warehousemen attending the local board stated it was the practice in other centres for factories to pay a service charge for cheese passing through refrigerated warehouses prior to shipment, but in Belleville this service has been supplied free of charge. Service charge paid in other centres ranged up to five cents, it was stated.

Member of the executive for the Ontario Cheese Producers' Association W. H. Montgomery in speaking on the matter stated that it appeared the producers were 'stuck' with something. He felt payment of the three cents warehousing charge was not the producers' responsibility.

Arthur Wait, vice-president of the cheese board was of the same opinion. Indicating that although farmers may not feel it now they likely would if cheese bonuses were cut off. "Producers should not be responsible for charges after cheese is unloaded off the truck," he said.

Secretary Fred Mallory voiced the opinion that salesmen considered buyers owned the cheese following the meeting of the cheese board, and it was this which deterred them in sanctioning the three cents charge.

Several of the cheese salesmen felt it was the duty of the Cheese Producers' Association to bring about a change in the regulations which called for cheese being sold from the shipping point instead of from the cheese factory. If cheese were sold f.o.b. factory, producers then would be relieved of the warehousing service charge.

Climaxing the discussion, past president, H. L. Adams moved the three cents warehousing charge be paid on all cheese requisitioned by the government during 1945.

On Friday afternoon, June 29th, the pupils, friends and neighbours gathered at the school house to do honour to their teacher, Mrs. Armstrong, on the occasion of her retirement from the teaching profession.

The meeting was called to order and Gwendie Roy read the following address.

June 29th, 1945

Dear Mrs. Armstrong,—
We, your pupils have learned with regret that you are not going to be our teacher for another year, so we took this time to be with you as a class once again.

We have enjoyed our school days and in years to come we will always remember with pleasure the years in which you were our teacher.

No doubt many times we have tried your patience, but you were always kind and ready to help us. No task was too small or too hard for you to do for us.

As a token of our respect and love for you, we ask you to accept this gift and may your future years be ones of happiness.

Signed on behalf of the pupils and friends of S. S. No. 11, Rawdon.

YOUTH DROWNED NEAR BANCROFT

Slipping unnoticed from a rock in Fraser Lake while fishing with two tourist companions, William Bronson, son of Mr. and Mrs. James Bronson, Hermon, Ontario, was drowned Thursday afternoon. The parents' only other son, Jim, age 7, died in Bancroft hospital last April following an operation.

Visiting his Aunt, Miss Jennie Stringer at Fraser Lake, the Bronson boy had been invited to go fishing by tourists staying at the lake. They were fishing off rocks, when the lad was asked if he could swim. Replying in the negative the lad was advised to return to a safer spot. Neither of the men missed the lad for some time, each thinking he was with the other. Later they found he had accidentally slipped from the rocks and had drowned.

Three Pounds A Week Allowance Under New Meat Rationing

Brown "M" coupons in existing Canadian ration books will be used for imposed meat rationing, each coupon having value ranging from one to three pounds of meat a week depending on the type, the Prices Board announced.

The board did not give a specific date for restoration of rationing made necessary by the demand for food in Europe, but noted that it had been estimated it would take two months from July 6 to have the system in operation. Prime Minister Mackenzie King announced on July 6 that rationing would be reimposed.

Meat rationing was dropped on Feb. 23, 1944 after being operative from May 27, 1943.

The new meat ration plan will be "basically the same" as during the previous rationing period, with these changes:

1. Meat tokens are being introduced on the basis of eight tokens for one coupon. This permits the purchaser to split his coupon and buy less meat at one time than the entire coupon value.

2. Fancy and canned meats are included in the new ration.

3. Changes have been made in the coupon values of different cuts.

Values as follows
Meats and cuts have been divided into groups for rationing purposes with values as follows:

Group A (one pound a coupon): Includes cured back pork sliced; back or side bacon, sliced, and cooked pork and ham.

Group B (1½ pounds a coupon): Includes round beef steak; sirloin tip; veal cutlets; mutton frontquarter; whole fresh ham; smoked pork central slices.

Group C (two pounds a coupon): Includes beef hangerquarter shank; sirloin steak; neck; veal loin; side pork; fresh; dry salt lean backs, cured;

CATCHES FINE BASS

While fishing in the Trent River last Thursday evening, Mrs. John Holmes, of Anson, hooked a fine specimen of the bass family, weighing 3 lbs. 2 oz.

Jellied meats; liver; kidney; sweetbread.

Group D (2½ pounds a coupon): Includes beef short ribs; fresh veal flank; pork sausage; mutton leg cut; fresh loin pork; smoked pork jowl.

Group E (three pounds a coupon): Includes fresh pork jowl; cured pork hock; heart.

"When consumer rationing is introduced the ration will be roughly two pounds a person, carcass weight," the Board said.

"This is the same ration as during the previous meat rationing period, but rationing will be more severe than before because all processed and 'fancy' meats will be included in the ration."

"Two pounds carcass weight approximately 1 1-3 pounds clear meat."

Under the previous rationing plan each consumer could use two coupons a week, these having various values depending on the type of meat purchased. The values ranged from one-half pound a coupon for smoked and cooked meats to 1½ pounds for such cuts as blade roasts of beef and a number of lamb and veal cuts with the bone left in.

The meats remaining unrationed are beef, calf, pork and lamb brains and heads and beef, pork and lamb tails. Poultry, game and fish, canned or fresh, will not be rationed.

Meat coupons will be valid until declared in valid and will not expire as under previous rationing.

Family Reunion At Oak Lake

Twentieth Anniversary At- tended By 125 Members of The Stapley-Tufts Families

The 20th reunion of the Stapley — Tufts families was held Wednesday, July 18th, at Searles Point, Oak Lake, with 125 guests registering during the day. As this was the 20th reunion a lovely three-tiered cake, decorated in pink and white, adorned the centre table. After all had done justice to the mid-day repast, President Seymour Hamilton called the gathering to order and Mrs. Adam Brummell, of Belleville, who was one of the organizers of the 1st picnic, was given the honour of cutting the cake. She was also presented with a china cup and saucer, as a small remembrance of this grand occasion by the Sec'y, Mrs. H. West. She graciously replied with a few well chosen words. A paper on "Our 20th Reunion", prepared by Mrs. Phil Hamilton, was read at this time by Frank Stapley. Two minutes silence were observed for those who have passed on during the past 20 years. All joined in singing, "Praise God From Whom All Blessings Flow." The cake which had been baked by Mrs. Frank Stapley, Stirling, was cut and passed and all enjoyed a piece. At 2 p.m., the president again took charge. After a short address he called on the secretary, who read the minutes of the last reunion; also the births, marriages and deaths. As this was the year to elect a new president, N. Stapley was elected to the office for the next two years. RED CROSS CLINICS RE-OPEN IN AUGUST

Continued support of the Blood Donor Service and urgent necessity for donors to continue their faithful attendance at clinics is urged in view of the fact that Ottawa has announced that there are to be about 35,000 Canadian troops in the Pacific. Blood serum must be made available to the wounded in that theatre of war.

Canadian Red Cross blood donor clinics will re-open next month. Mr. Russell T. Kelley, Chairman of Canadian Red Cross Blood Donor service in Ontario, emphasizing the need for continued support of the public, pointed out: "While the war with Germany is over, the war with Japan is far from finished. There are two big reasons (including that stated above) why the service must continue. The British Government has asked the Canadian Government, and they in turn have requested Canadian Red Cross for 150,000 bottles of blood serum annually in Canada and Ontario has agreed to produce half of that total, on a basis of 5,500 donations weekly.

The National Blood Donor Committee and the Canadian Hospital Association have already held two meetings giving consideration to the question of the blood donor service after the war.

CITIZENS' COMMITTEES

When Johnny left for basic training he may have thought he didn't have a friend in the world, but when he comes marching home, he'll find that a lot of people in his home town appreciate what he's done and want to pitch in and help him get back on his feet.

Over 500 Citizens' Committees—made up of ordinary people, businessmen, church folk, service club members, neighbours—have been organized in towns, cities and villages all across Canada to see that the veteran gets a square deal. They know he's been through a lot and they want to help him. They want to see that he gets the kind of job he likes, that if he will profit by training he is advised about it, that his family will get the best possible accommodations. If he wants advice, they'll give it to him freely—on business, economic or personal matters.

Quietly and unobtrusively, the Citizens' Committees go about making life easier for the returned man by helping him in his troubles and lending an understanding ear.

One young RCAF veteran, taking a course in Toronto, did not seem to be doing so well. His instructors investigated. They found that his wife at home had just had a baby, and that he was short on cash to pay hospital bills. A quick call to the Committee in his home town sent a man hurrying to the hospital, where arrangements were soon made to pay for the cost of junior's arrival, with the ex-airman repaying the cost in monthly amounts that fitted his budget. In no time everything was smoothed out, and the young airman was going full speed ahead with his studies.

Rehabilitation, as the government realized, is a three-fold job, involving the enactment and administration of laws, the determination of the veteran himself, and the co-operation of the community, which is the part played by the Citizens' Committees.

Committees vary in size from one city to the next. Some have only the one committee looking after everything, others, particularly the big places, have a central committee and numerous sub-committees, such as housing committees, church committees, etc.

In dozens of different ways, depending on the ingenuity and good-heartedness of the townfolk, the Citizens' Committees do their best to make the returned man feel at home. One community writes him a letter before he's even discharged, telling him what they are planning. Another sends him a certificate of appreciation, a "thank-you" card, printed on the best paper available. Another town sends him a personal letter with an enclosed mimeographed sheet, asking him what he'd like to do and what they can do for him.

Another place waits till he's been home a couple of months then sends him a personal letter to find out how he's getting along. In almost every case they find there's some little adjustment that can be made, some problem—business, economic or otherwise, in which the experienced men of the Committee can be of service.

All over Canada—in big cities and small villages—when Johnny comes marching home, the Citizens' Committees are on the job to make him feel that his welfare is the country's first consideration.

DO'S AND DON'TS FOR FISHERMEN

Don't overload the boat—the fish hasn't been born that is worth a human life, loss of tackle, or a good ducking, says the Gore Bay Recorder.

Always carry a few needed spares, such as, starting-cord for the out-board motor; extra anchor, spare line for mooring, extra fish line; spark plugs. In fact anything that could be lost, break, or become worn out and thus make your trip a failure instead of a success.

When you get thirsty out in the middle of the lake or river (and you always do) DON'T drink the water the boat is in. Take along a bottle or thermos jug of water or if you prefer, soft drinks or anything else in a sealed bottle.

Don't get excited when you tie into "that big one." Take it easy and play him until he is tired enough to be brought easily to the boat where he can be netted or gaffed without the risk of loss. More old "lunkers" have been lost by over-eager fishermen than has ever been taken. The story of the 'big one that got away' is too often the real McCoy.

A dull hook never caught anything and held it. Check over the hooks on your plugs and lures and make sure they have good sharp points. If you don't have one of those hook-stones, use a piece of fine emery-cloth, to sharpen the points and barbs.

When netting a fish get him coming head-on into the net. Never try to "scoop" him up like a tennis ball. He objects to being tickled in the tail, and will invariably break loose when you try to take him from behind.

Clean those spoons you use for trolling with any good metal polish. After all they were bright and shiny when you bought them and the fish will hit them a lot sooner if they are kept that way.

Clean your fish as soon as possible after catching them, the meat will taste a lot better, and the job will be a lot easier. The scales really hold tight after they have dried.

In recent months there have been several instances of persons losing wallets, containing sums of money in Stirling and in no case have we heard of them being recovered. The Family Allowance cheques are now in circulation and the employees at the local "counting house" are busy handing out the cash for these slips from the government. The three prize essentials of life are health, freedom and leisure. Health comes first, because without it, we cannot enjoy our work or pleasure. Freedom is shared by all Canadians and is modified only by the margin between our incomes and our expenditures. Leisure, the third but equally important item, all of us have, and it is on the advantageous use of our leisure that our future in life depends. Proper exercising of body and mind with a sprinkling of plain and fancy loafing should be indulged in during our leisure hours, always remembering that too much of any one at the expense of the others can eventually prove harmful.

DEFINITION OF EDITOR

Following is the definition of an editor: "An editor is a man who is liable to grammatical blunders, toothache, typographical errors, and loss of memory; and usually he has ninety-seven thousand people watching to catch him tripping. He is acquainted with grief and poverty, and frequently liable to be ragged, hungry and dry for a long period. And yet the world is full of people who want to be editors."

COUNT OUR BLESSINGS

We think Fergus people would do well to look around them sometimes to see how much they have now. In the words of the old song, they might count their blessings once in a while.

In a recent issue of Saturday Evening Post, E. V. Murphy wrote about life in a small town, compared with life in a big city. He had recently moved from a city to a town. He's a recent convert, of course, and perhaps more enthusiastic on that account, but what he says is interesting. He finds that in a small town each inhabitant is an individual and counts for something in his community. The city dweller tends to react in the same way as thousands of his fellows, he doesn't know personally the men who administer the affairs of the city, from the mayor down, and they do not know him. They are out of touch with the basic things in life, the sources of food, clothing and raw materials. The town dweller, being closer to his needs, develops an independence foreign to city life. Mr. Murphy might have pointed out that the farmer is still more independent.—Fergus News-Record.

THERE'S A SHORTAGE

About a year ago there were awful complaints about line-ups outside brewers' warehouses. There aren't many of them now—at least not for long—because there is nothing to line up for.—Almonte Gazette.

WITHOUT A DOUBT!

Canadians generally will be glad to see the speedy demobilization of the many boards that have been set up as wartime bodies to administer affairs on the home front. Many of them were necessary and on the whole have done a good job in spite of lack of any experience, but maintaining them or setting up any new boards and regulations will not find favor in any quarter.

PICTON SHERIFF RESIGNS

Alva Edward Bowerman informed The Times that he had handed in his resignation as Sheriff of Prince Edward County to J. deC. Hepburn, M.L.A., the resignation to take effect as of the first of 1946, after 11 years' service in the office.

"I felt it my duty to resign, to permit the appointment of a younger man with overseas service, a man who has 'done his bit' for his country," Sheriff Bowerman told The Times, adding, "I have always realized that mine was a political appointment and for this reason I have had my grip packed, while invariably striving to do my best in the interests of the county.—The Picton Times.

NEWS FOR THE BUSY FARMER

ELECTRIC FENCES CONTROL LIVE STOCK

Live stock as a rule need little training to keep away from electric fences. Observations at the Dominion Experimental Station at Swift Current, Sask., show that the animals learn very quickly and do not approach a fence even when it is not charged. At Swift Current, a 13-plate wet battery was used on an electric fence that was used throughout the summer months last year for pasturing cattle. The cattle were well controlled, no harm was done to the cattle or the attendant, and the battery was still charged at the end of the season.

The use of electric fences is gradually becoming more widely adopted for pastures. These fences have many advantages but care is necessary in establishing the equipment. Among the advantages are reduction of cost in erecting temporary fences, reduction of expenditure for wire, posts, and gates, reduction of injury to live stock; the adaptation in the west to winding coulees or temporary pasture areas otherwise impractical to fence, and the enclosure in the fields of untillable lands that otherwise might be wasted. As a rule, one or two wires are sufficient to carry the electric current. One wire is sufficient for horses and cattle. Two wires are considered preferable for pigs and sheep. The wire can be supported by porcelain insulators on 2" by 2" stakes set in the ground 30 to 40 feet apart.

SECURE AMPLE FEED SUPPLIES

Unless there is a complete crop failure in Western and Eastern Canada, ample supplies of feeds will be available to meet the demands of Canadian live stock feeders in 1945-46, states J. G. Davidson, Feeds Administrator. While it is too early in the season to make any definite estimates on quantities of oats, barley, and feed to be produced this year, it would appear almost certain that the Eastern Canadian crop of coarse grains will be considerably less than last year. And while good rains all over Western Canada have improved crop prospects there, it will not be until near harvest time that any definite figures are obtainable on the western crop.

With this situation facing the Canadian agricultural program, the Feeds Administration has already taken steps to secure and move reserve stocks of oats and feeding wheat have been moved to Collingwood, Midland, Port McNicoll, Sarnia, and Montreal and still larger stocks are in position at Fort William and Port Arthur.

Arrangements are now being considered in regard to controlling new crop barley shipments so as to assure sufficient for feeding purposes for the 1945-1946 crop year. Similar arrangements are being studied to safeguard the British Columbia feeding program. To augment further these supplies, all exports of oats, feed barley and feeding grades of wheat have been stopped until sufficient quantities are in hand to meet all feeding demands.

NOW MORE PROFITS IN RAISING HOGS

When does it pay to raise hogs? Most farmers figure they can make a profit on hogs when the selling price is well above the cost of feed eaten by the hog. In this calculation they are right: feed is the biggest part of the cost of raising hogs. But as neither the cost of feed nor the price of hogs stays steady for long, there are times when hog raising is more profitable than others, and now is that time.

Economists say that this is proved by the present hog-barley ratio, which is explained by Keith Leckie, a Dominion Department of Agriculture economist who was born and brought up on a western Ontario farm which has always kept hogs, and has had more brood sows during the war than ever before, and several more this year than last. In the "Economic Annalist", he describes the way he finds out when hog raising is profitable, under what he calls the Hog Feed Margin.

He figures that it takes about 14 bushels of barley to produce one hundred pounds of pork. So he multiplies by 14 the price of barley and subtracts this from the price paid per hundredweight for a B1 hog. The difference between these figures is the margin a farmer makes on selling barley as pork rather than as grain. And in this figuring, he takes into account the advance equalization payment made by the Dominion Government to Western Canada barley growers and also the Dominion premium on quality hogs.

This calculation shows that for every hundredweight of pork a farmer produces he has a margin of $8.32 above the cost of the barley it took to produce that hundredweight of pork. Of course, that $8.32 is not all clear profit. Allowance must be made for labour and other expenses such as housing. But the point is that the margin of $8.32 a hundred—which is the present figure at Winnipeg—is now higher than it has been at any time since war began.

Now this margin of $8.32 may not hold all year. But to find a whole year when the Hog-Feed Margin averaged higher than at present, one has to go back to 1930.

Labour costs are higher than they used to be. And so is the cost of building a new pig pen. But these are not big items in the cost of raising hogs. The biggest cost is feeding, and there is more margin in feeding grain to hogs now than there has been 15 years.

CANADIAN HORSES FOR B. W. I. POLICE

Eighteen police horses are on their way from Canada to do constabulary duty in the British West Indies Islands of Trinidad and Barbados. All half-breeds, they were selected by the Dominion Department of Agriculture from Breeding Stations at Brampton and Ailsa Craig, Ontario.

Of this shipment, the six horses going to Barbados average 15 hands, 1-2 inches in height and range in age from 4 to 7 years; the twelve horses for Trinidad average 15 hands, 3 in. with an age range of 3 to 6 years. Since 1933, both Trinidad and Barbados have obtained all their police horses from Canada.

IMPROVE FAIR GROUNDS

With a view to constructing new buildings and making improvements to the Fair Grounds, Tweed Agricultural Society plan to launch a public subscription campaign within the next two weeks. The grounds, up until this year, were the property of The Tweed and Hungerford Park Association and for a considerable time the Fair Board paid an annual rental of $175.00. Of late years, owing to decreased gate receipts and other obligations, The Board was not able to pay rental fees although they maintained the insurance and paid the expenses of keeping the grounds adequately in shape in order to carry on The Fair.

SO MUCH FOR ST. SWITHIN

On Monday last the opinion was ventured in these columns that, St. Swithin's legend or no St. Swithin's was plain hokey.

legend, the rain of July 15 would not be repeated every day of the ensuing forty. In short it was suggested that the ancient rhyme:

St. Swithin's Day if thou be fair
For forty days 'twill rain no fair;
St. Swithin's Day if thou dost rain,
For forty days it shall remain.

was plain hokey.

Well, in prompt proof, while there was a day long downpour on the Saint's day, yesterday passed without so much as a shower. Moreover, such evidence is not at all necessary. Meteorologists at Greenwich Observatory have declared that "there has never been one solitary instance of fulfillment of this moist sequence of a wet July 15."

The Adventures of "Peerless Pete" ... by THE BRITISH AMERICAN OIL COMPANY LIMITED

No. 3 HI-VAC

Our artist gives his version of how the finest crude oil—symbolized by Pete—is selected and refined to make B-A Peerless. For longer life, lower repair costs ask for Peerless Motor Oil tomorrow! "It's Alloyed!"

PETE NEEDS TO REDUCE

NOW FOR A STEAM BATH!

After "topping", the famous 5-point Clarkson process begins with High Vacuum distillation.

PETE SWEATS IT OUT

I DON'T NEED WHAT AN OIL!

High vacuum keeps the temperature low enough to protect the lubricating quality of Peerless.

PETE WINS HIS GRADE

GOOD-BYE FATSO, GOOD-BYE SLIM!

The S.A.E. grades are separated—each will be made to do a better job in the engine of your car.

It's Alloyed!

"... There She Goes!"

YES, there goes the whistle that means jobs! But remember! Factory whistles will keep blowing... smoke will keep pouring from factory chimneys, only if you and all of us do our part to keep Canada's dollar sound. And unless we keep the Canadian dollar worth a dollar, we're headed for inflation, and its inevitable result—depression!

Canada's active fight against inflation is a vital part of all our post-war planning. We Canadians must now—more than ever now—fight to keep Canada's dollar worth a full dollar!

Why now especially? Because now civilian goods are scarce, and yet money is plentiful. This is a dangerous condition.

It means we must maintain controls and price ceilings; support rationing and urge the support of rationing. We must buy wisely and with the greatest care: be on guard at all times, checking, working, fighting to keep Canada's dollar sound. If we do this, we can keep prices from rising. If we don't, some day we'll be paying a dollar for 30c worth of goods, which means our dollar is only worth 30c.

We know what happened after the last war! We must fight against it happening again. For our own sakes—for the sake of the men who fought overseas and to whom we owe a future with a job, we must keep Canada's dollar worth a full dollar. We must keep up an active fight against inflation!

Make this Pledge Today!

I pledge myself to do my part in fighting inflation:

By observing rationing and avoiding black markets in any shape or form.

By respecting price controls and other anti-inflation measures, and refraining from careless and unnecessary buying. I will not buy two sary buying. I will not buy where one will do, nor will I buy a "new" where an "old" will do.

By buying Victory Bonds, supporting taxation and abiding by all such measures which will lower the cost of living and help keep prices at a normal level.

What a tremendous difference balanced feeding makes in poultry production. Grains alone are low in the type and quality of ingredients that are needed to keep laying hens in full health and in full production. Rollins' Reunion Picnic

The annual picnic of the Rollins descendants, held for the first time twenty years ago, was held on Wednesday 18, at the Township Hall, Ivanhoe.

At one o'clock dinner was served to one hundred and twenty of the connection. The tables were nicely decorated with flags and roses and were bountifully laden with food. When the dinner was ready the guests were lined up outside and marched into the dining hall. After singing Grace, everyone was seated to partake of these good things.

After dinner, the meeting was called to order by the singing of God Save the King. The President, Stanley Rollins, of Cooper, made a few remarks. The minutes were read and approved. S. B. Rollins, Treasurer, gave the Treasurer's Report.

The election of officers came next and resulted in the following officers being elected for 1946.—

Honorary President—Charles Rollins, Coe Hill.

President—Hugh MacMillan.

Vice-President—Wm. Woods, Foxboro.

Secretary—Mrs. George Williams, Bonarlaw.

Treasurer—Mrs. Will French, Ivanhoe.

Historian—Mrs. Lillian Hubble, Shannonville.

Committee—Bonter Rollins, Ivanhoe, Joe Rollins, Madoc, Mrs. Percy Rollins, Belleville, Don Campbell, Stirling, Hark Rollins, Cooper; Jim Jeffrey, Tweed; Elymer Rollins, Ivanhoe. The new President, Hugh MacMillan, took charge of the remainder of the meeting.

It was decided to hold the 1946 Reunion, at Ivanhoe on the last Wednesday in July.

S. B. Rollins, Tweed gave a few remarks emphasizing that at least 30 were present who had attended the first picnic in 1925.

Messrs. Hugh and Albert MacMillan gave a very pleasing vocal duet.

Harry Rollins, Belleville, voiced the appreciation of the visitors to the members of Ivanhoe for their efficient preparations.

He expressed the regrets of Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Rollins, of not being able to be present.

One minute silence expressed respect for the late Mrs. Sarah Rollins, of Cooper.

It was planned to have the Family Tree completed for the 100th Anniversary sary in 1947 of the Rollins Family coming to Canada.

Wm. Woods then gave a few remarks. This was followed by a dance and song by Carolyn Rollins, Stirling. Carlyle Rollins, Ivanhoe, gave an amusing recitation.

The prize for the oldest person present went to Mr. S. B. Rollins, Tweed. The newly married couple were Mr. and Mrs. Jack Rollins, Peterborough, married on July 17th, 1945. Barbara Anne Weese, Shannonville, was the youngest attendant, age 4 months and three weeks.

A letter was to be sent to Mr. G. A. Rollins, Madoc, who is 81, but was unable to attend.

The younger folk then went to the ball field to enjoy a ball game, and to the booth to enjoy the ice-cream and treats. The older folk spent a social half hour visiting. There were 130 registered showing a decided increase over last year.

LETTER TO THE EDITOR RE HOUSING SHORTAGE

Mr. Editor,—I suggest that our township councils should urge the provincial and Dominion authorities to make use of the many vacant houses throughout the townships for returned men.

Here is a golden opportunity for councils to bring much benefit to our service men and rural areas.

It would be cheaper than building new houses, even if materials were plentiful, for the Dominion to install electricity, water systems, insulation. Make proposition attractive to returned men by providing short hours of labour (say 6 hours per day) good living, and working conditions, suitable for one who has risked his life in defense of his country.

The townships are full of work waiting for somebody to do it.

Many service men could find here a happier, more satisfying life than they had ever known before.

Men of vision and imagination are needed.

PRO BONO PUBLICO

RIVER VALLEY W.I.

The July meeting of the River Valley W. I. was held at the home of Mrs. Sheldon McIntosh with a good attendance. The meeting opened with the Opening Ode, followed with the Lord's Prayer. Minutes of last meeting were read and approved. It was decided to send $10.00 to Sick Children's Hospital. Major Edgar Matthews was guest speaker for the day. Mrs. Chard had charge of the program on War Work. August meeting will be held at the River Valley School House, on August 2nd, at 8.30 p.m. Meeting closed with the National Anthem.

MEN FOR HOME BUILDING MUST BE SECURED

Home building is highly essential to overcome pressing housing shortages, and to provide dwellings for the Forces as discharged.

Shortages of workers for building homes and for producing the building materials are threatening to impede Canada's program for the construction of 50,000 homes as soon as possible.

All men experienced in home building or in producing building materials, who are not now working in either of these industries, are urged to apply to the nearest office of the National Employment Service immediately.

Men experienced at home building or producing supplies, if now in other essential work, will be given permits to work at jobs which will assist the house building program.

All men, not now at house building nor producing supplies, who can fill a job in this program, are urged to answer this call.

Apply at once at the nearest office of the National Employment Service.

Work, Work and More Work

It must be admitted that a great many people across Canada have shown signs of being deeply concerned about their postwar economic as well as social problems and that this concern could be detected along Parliament Hill so that there may be widespread interest to learn at this time that, in face of all the thousands of men returning home from overseas and the gradual curtailment of war work, yet it is reported in well-informed quarters in Ottawa that the demand for labor now is in excess of the supply. In fact in some directions, there is an acute shortage of workers, particularly in the plant construction industry. Moreover, the need for food, both in this country and elsewhere, means that production efforts will have to be increased tremendously in the immediate future. In short the demand for labor is strong at this time and much of the concern amongst numerous Canadians on their chances for employment seems completely unnecessary at the moment, judging from reports circulating along Parliament Hill where a new Order-in-Council that is known as PC 4383 has been passed. This Order-in-Council has established an advisory committee on rehabilitation and re-establishment to deal with policy in such vital matters of service personnel or war workers so that these may be put into proper places in civilian industry, with the extreme importance of this work being recognized officially as various Departments of the Government are represented on it, including the Departments of Veteran Affairs, Defence, Reconstruction, Finance and Agriculture, these being Deputy Ministers or Senior Departmental officials.

Amazing Expansion

So remarkable is the expansion of Canada's operation as a nation amongst the nations of the world, being easily now one of the greatest secondary powers on the international scene, that the Department of External Affairs in Ottawa may not only have its own Minister but the multiplicity of work is emphasized with the report of numerous appointments about to be made, such as legations and embassies in various countries where no high Canadian diplomatic representation is now in existence. Moreover, it is said in Ottawa that some of these high posts may be filled by Canadians with proper military records in World War II and that this was one of the reasons why these appointments had not been made previously in some cases. The actual expansion of the functions of the Canadian Government in world affairs has been amazing to a close observer of the Department in Ottawa and it has been nothing short of startling, in comparison with the organization of this Department at the beginning of this century. In regard to the appointment of a new Minister exclusively for this work, which has been carried on by the Prime Minister for many years, Premier King himself declared last year: "I do agree that in a subsequent Parliament, who ever may have to do with these different positions be wise if he were to seek a minister to fill the portfolio of external affairs, with duties apart altogether from those of the Prime Minister."

War-time Activities Continue

Though the war in Europe is now another chapter in history, yet the Royal Canadian Air Force is going to continue strenuous efforts in research for defence purposes. This has been revealed in this capital where it has become known that a special research and development division will carry on activities in peacetime and help to avoid another catastrophe through proper, perfect preparations for any eventualities in world affairs of tomorrow. In World War II, new devices and weapons, such as jet propelled aircraft, lying rockets, etc. had shown the need of keeping up-to-the-minute in these defence activities and this accounts for the creation by the R.C.A.F. of this new division of continuous research for defence in Canada.

Political Bottlenecks
The Dominion-Provincial Conference in August in Ottawa has been preceded by a flood of peculiar stories. Heard in usually reliable quarters along Parliament Hill these seem to indicate that the initial gatherings now are intended mainly for the object of preliminary talks only and later in the year there may be other meetings so that everything points to a general intention to avoid proposals or counter-

Hello, Homemakers! The adage: "It's not what you do but the way you do it," holds true for making jam during a time when fruit, sugar and time are so valuable. Every preserving season for the past ten years we've been advising homemakers how to make a good jellied product. If you have mislaid your clipping, drop us a request for Hints on Jam Making.

This year we are pointing out the precautions in the use of pectin liquid and pectin crystals. Considering the results of last year's test along with the instructions of a reliable manufacturer of this product, we have determined measurements to be of particular importance. This "sure-pure" jam is really not any more expensive than the old-fashioned boiling of a combination of fruits and sugar. Another reason for using the commercial pectin method is the poorer quality of fruits this year. Also remember—the only fruits which possess properties for jelling without the addition of another fruit to balance low acid or low pectin content are sour apples, currants, gooseberries, grapes and tart plums.

HOW TO MAKE JAM WITH PECTIN CRYSTALS
1. Select fully ripened fruit of good flavour and colour, and prepare exactly as directed.
2. Wash, scald and drain glasses and covers. Melt paraffin in a small pot over hot water.
3. Measure sugar into a dry dish to be added later. Measure prepared fruit into a 5 or 6 quart kettle. If there is a slight shortage of prepared fruit, fill last cup or fraction of cup with water. Use same standard 8-oz. measuring cup, level full, for both sugar and fruit.
4. Place kettle containing measured fruit on large electric element turned high. Add commercial pectin crystals, mix well and bring to a boil, stirring constantly with wooden spoon. As soon as mixture boils hard, pour in sugar, stirring constantly. Continue stirring and bring to a full rolling boil; then boil 1 minute by the clock. A full rolling boil is a tumbling, steaming boil that cannot be stirred down.
5. Remove from stove, skim rapidly with metal spoon and ladle out immediately. Leave 1-2 inch space at top of each jar. Cover jam at once with 1-8 in. melted wax. When cool, cover with more wax or tin covers. Store in cool, dry place.
Note: Do not double recipes. Do not vary ingredients or method of preparing fruit. Boil exactly one minute. Do not use any commercial pectin to try to remedy a jam or jelly mix which does not jelly. When recipe specifies simmering time, bring mix to boil, reduce heat, cover and simmer. (On large electric closed element turn to off).

RASPBERRY JAM

10 Glasses)
2 quarts raspberries, 6 cups or 2 lbs. 10-oz. sugar, 1 box pectin crystals.
Crush thoroughly or grind fully ripe red or black raspberries. Part of pulp may be sieved if fruit is too seedy. Measure crushed fruit with standard cup to make 4 1-2 cups, adding water to make full amount if necessary. Put in a large kettle and bring to a boil; add exact amount of sugar. Add pectin crystals and stir constantly. Keep boiling 1 minute. Then bottle, cool and seal.

RED CURRANT JAM

13 GLASSES
3 lbs. or 2 qts. red currants; 3 lbs. or 7 cups sugar, 1 box pectin crystals.
Crush thoroughly. Sieve one-half of pulp if desired. Measure fruit. There should be 6 cups or 3 lbs. If not exact amount, make up by addition of water. Process according to general directions for pectin jams.

BLUEBERRY AND GOOSEBERRY JAM

(10 Jars)
1 lb. blueberries, 1 lb. gooseberries, 1 box pectin crystals, 5 cups or 2 1-4 lbs. sugar.
Crush fully ripe blueberries and gooseberries. Combine fruits. There should be 4 1-2 cups or 2 1-4 lbs. prepared fruit. Make jam according to above directions using commercial pectin.

GOOSEBERRY JAM

(12 Glasses)
2 quarts gooseberries, 7 cups or 3 lbs. sugar, 1 box pectin crystals.
Crush thoroughly and make sure of 5 cups or 2 1-2 lbs. prepared fruit. Make up any fraction of amount required by adding water. Follow the explicit directions for using commercial pectin.

1. A food chopper is convenient for crushing fruit.
2. Use new paraffin; old paraffin often causes spoilage.
3. If sugar is weighed, weigh fruit also.
4. Add 1-4 tsp. butter to reduce foaming at time of adding sugar.
5. Use metal spoon to skim jam rapidly.

Total casualties in Canada's armed forces, as of May 31, 1945, were 102,954.

MOLLY'S SON

BY HARRY M. MOORE

A Story of Harness Horse Racing in the Early 1900's

(All Rights Reserved)

CHAPTER VI

MOLLY'S foal did not die after all. Given one chance in a thousand to survive his premature birth, it was tough and go with the youngster for several weeks, but Doc Brisco gave the little animal closer personal attention than he had ever given anything of the horse family before in his life and that close attention paid in the long run.

Left with a stallion colt that must be hand-fed, Benny Bannerman was a puzzled youth, but he would have been more puzzled, would indeed have been endless worries, if it had not been for the interest shown in the foal, not only by the veterinarian, but by T. B. Telfer, Bill Moran and "Horse" McKenny. A word might be put in here for Mrs. McKenny. She was as much interested in this colt as though it had been a child. And there were many conferences in the box stall in the McKenny barn at which the four men and this lone woman were present, conferences that Benny Bannerman was never to know about.

What Benny saw was a foal that was gaining in size and weight. He knew little of what was behind that colt's physical development from a thin, half-starved, crooked-legged thing to one of round body and legs that were as unblemished as they were sturdy. Playing with the colt in the box stall, he noticed a peculiar shuffle of the right hind leg which gave the colt a limp, a limp that was much like that of the dam. When he first noticed it, Benny traced the limp, as he thought, to the hip, and stood with fingers on chin in a state of bewilderment.

Molly's foal had not been kicked as his dam had been kicked. Could that dam's limp be handed down to her progeny?

An examination of the colt's hoofs showed no sign of quarter cracks, something to be feared by horsemen. And as he stood and gazed at those four white feet, Benny remembered the arguments pro and con that he had heard in the blacksmith shop relative to a horse with four white feet being born bawky. He had never formed an opinion of his own on this matter, for he had seen horses with four white feet being everything else but bawky, while he never remembered running into the bawky type.

By the time that Molly's foal was ready to turn out to pasture, he was over the milk-feeding stage. Though small, and it was evident he would never be very big, he was fat and quite healthy. He might even pass as a first-class colt in the eyes of everybody but Doc Brisco. And in this the boy had the veterinary sized up correctly.

Doc Brisco dropped over to the McKenny farm one night to find Benny and the colt in the pasture field behind the barn. Benny pointed out the colt's pronounced limp and wanted to know what caused it and what could be done about it.

"You want the truth?" Doc asked, answering it himself. "Yes, well, I'll tell you. He'll never make a race horse, and I wouldn't waste my time on him. That limp is not in the hip, it's a leg—his right hind leg. That leg is fully an inch shorter than the other one...."

"The—what?" gasped the boy. "The leg is shorter? Well, what can be done about it?"

"Nothing," said Doc Brisco. "Nothing now. Had we noticed it in time we could have slung him up, weighted the leg and tried to draw it out while the bone was still soft—now...." he gestured, "it's too late."

What Doc Brisco did not tell him was that the shortness of that particular leg was known in plenty of time, and under advice from T. B. Telfer, the colt was slung up, but when the blacksmith saw what being hoisted in the slings looked like, he ordered him to be taken down at once as it did not look a humane thing to do to a colt that was fighting for its very life.

Nor did Benny Bannerman know at that time, although he was to know it later, that T. B. vowed that same night to find some way of overcoming the handicap. He would make a boot, or a foot, or something that would straighten him up.

"Nothing is going to beat me," said the blacksmith, "this colt is going to live, he must live, and with his exceptionally fine breeding it must be in him to become a great race horse. With that short leg he's bound to be handicapped to some extent. Well, I'm seeing that that handicap is removed, if I have to learn the trades of cobbler and wood-worker and whatever else is needed."

T. B. Telfer put every spare minute he had into that extension. He called it a boot, and to make it he had to select and discard many different materials. He knew every horseman in the country and he wrote letters to many of them, and he was told that he was trying the impossible. No where could he find a horseman who had ever had a race horse with a short leg; no where could he find any person who had ever seen such a contrivance.

Meanwhile, Benny was breaking in his colt to lead, to obey. And again he didn't know what was going on; didn't know that the more experienced hand of "Horse" McKenny was doing the same thing when he wasn't around.

As a matter of fact, Benny did not know that his colt was a sort of four-men-and-a-boy affair. And that everything had all been planned for the colt's well-being and welfare by the four men in the shop when he was not within earshot. T. B., of course, was to look after the shoeing and provide the racing equipment; Doc Brisco, the animal's health, most important of which was his feed; "Horse" McKenny was to break him, but to pretend that the work was being done by Benny, while Bill Moran's tasks were to oversee the whole set-up and jog the memories of the others interested so that nothing would be left undone to give this colt the best care and attention and training possible. For despite anything any one of these men would say, they were agreed in the aggregate that this was no ordinary colt and that he would make no ordinary race-horse. And that was the kind of race horse they needed to take the place of the deeply lamented Molly.

By fall, Molly's Son, as Benny had decided to call him, was wearing harness like a veteran. And in the evenings, hitched to "Horse" McKenny's old jogging cart, he was giving the boy some exciting moments in one of McKenny's fields, a field that was level as a board and wide in all directions.

The little stallion was most tractable and willing to learn. Benny was kind and patient, and never too hard on him.

Molly's Son had speed, in a sort of shuffling way. But, strangest of all, he was pacer. Started off on the trot, he would revert at once to the trot, as though the trot were not fast enough for him. A true son of a trotter dam and a trotter sire, how could this happen? Molly had never mothered a pacer.

Puzzled by this strange phenomenon, Benny Bannerman turned to "Horse" McKenny that first night and asked for an explanation.

"There ain't none," "Horse" said. "That's just the way they turn out. And while I always liked the trotters, and at first couldn't go for these here side-wheelers, you tell me the gait of the horses that are grabbing off the big money these days. And, I don't know, but I don't think I'd change him. If he wants to pace, let him pace. Try him free-legged at first and if he breaks—well, I've an old set of Indiana underwear hanging over in the barn that'll keep him going true."

T. B. Telfer was also greatly puzzled that the offspring of two such outstanding trotters should be an out-and-out pacer.

"My preference has always been the trotters," he said. "I'd sooner shoe 'em. And it seems to be the only natural gait, just like a man walking or running and swinging the right arm with the left leg. Lou Dillon's a trotter and so is Major Delmar, and you know what they've done to the records. But on the other hand, look at that Dan Patch and Prince Alert, and remember that the first horse to beat the two minute mark was Star Pointer, and he was a pacer. It's pretty hard to take a side on this gait question, and I'm old fashioned, Benny my boy, and I still believe that what is to be will be, and that includes horses as well as men. Does the colt appear to have any speed in him at all?"

"In the field, yes, but I'll tell you better what he can do in the spring when I get him on the speedway. I've already entered him in the two-year old race. Say, I'll have to change that. I had him down as a trotter. He should make some sort of showing, don't you think?"

"You think of everything, don't you, Mr. Telfer," the boy said proudly.

"Well," T. B. said, "the way I look at it, a feller has to do some figuring ahead, if he wants to get ahead, and if the boot I'm making for your colt is half as good as I think it will be, you may have a good race horse after all. And say, before I forget, have you got a name for the colt yet?"

"I'm calling him Molly's Son," the boy said.

"Molly's Son?" T. B. repeated. "Molly's Son? It sounds good, boy. It awakens many pleasant memories. It's a grand name, Molly's Son, a grand name, and in the words of Bill Moran, 'May God love you for that!'" proposals that may endanger the life of this momentous meeting that must find a proper solution to numerous complex national as well as local problems, especially in the field of finance and taxation which are closely related with ambitious new postwar schemes for providing a better living for the masses. Nevertheless, there is a fear that "political hotbeds" may be involved and hints are heard that plans to eliminate them are in the making at the present time.

Unusual Situation

Somehow or other Ministers of the Federal Cabinet have been so busy during this summer that even their absence from the capital has not always given them much rest from thoughts of their work or duties, resulting in some measure from the accumulation of events in the general election, the coming Dominion-Provincial Conference and the next session of Parliament opening in August. Premier Mackenzie King has been busy with plans for his entry into Parliament by way of Glengarry riding; Hon. Douglas Abbott and Hon. James Gardiner are concerned with their tasks of facing recounts in their own districts of Westmount-Montreal and Melville respectively; Hon. James McKinnon has engaged in a trip to the West; Hon. Ernest Bertrand is out of Ottawa for sometime now; Hon. Ian Mackenzie is studying closely at first hand various angles of veterans' affairs in order to present their views to Parliament; Hon. C. D. Howe is extremely busy with some delicate affairs of state which involve frequent meetings and such urgent matters as housing, civil aviation, etc.; Hon. J. L. Halsey is engaged in preparing numerous financial angles for the annual budget as well as taxation issues; Hon. Louis St. Laurent has been unusually occupied, including trips outside of Canada; Hon. A. G. L. McNaughton has been kept on the move with numerous tasks not the least of which has been the heavy responsibility of looking after the great flood of incoming troops from abroad as well as attending to other such duties pertaining to defence department affairs. It is apparent from this brief summary that the Ministers have had little or no chance for rest or holidays since the close of the last session and the start of a new gathering next month.

Considerable Comment

There is considerable comment backstage on Parliament Hill about whispers of what may be forthcoming shortly in certain directions as Canada assumes a status of nationhood, with this comment involving views strongly for or against rumoured plans, such as the naming of a Canadian in future as Governor-General, which seems to have caused much displeasure in some quarters, the choice of a distinctive Canadian flag, discontinuance of allowing the Privy Council in Britain to be Canada's highest Court of Justice and replacing it by the Supreme Court in Ottawa, Canada's assumption of the right to amend or change her own constitution in the form of the British North America Act, and the creation of a national anthem for this country.

Weekly Wind-up

Headed by Reconstruction Minister, C. D. Howe, Canada will have a strong delegation at the meeting of the Provisional International Civil Aviation Organization which will meet in Aug. in this country, with Canada having been given the assignment of setting up a small temporary secretariat for this international body until a permanent one could be established in a

ARMSTRONG—HICK

St. Paul's United Church, Stirling, was the scene of a lovely sacred wedding, July 21, at one-thirty p.m., when Marion Joyce Hick, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Murney E. Hick, Stirling, became the bride of Flight Lieutenant Howard Ray Armstrong, RCAF, son of Mr. and Mrs. A. Armstrong, Pincher Creek, Alberta. Reverend D. Gray was the officiating clergyman for the double ring ceremony.

The beautiful church decorated with white hydrangea and delphinium blended fittingly and made a lovely setting for the beautiful uniformed wedding. The guest pews were marked with white satin bows and nosegays cleverly composed of pansies and forget-me-nots. The wedding music was played by Mr. William Connor, organist of Holloway Street United Church, Belleville, owing to the sudden illness of Mr. Gerald Clute, Stirling, who had previously been engaged to play. Mrs. Frances Jeffrey, Belleville, during the signing of the register, rendered "Because."

The bride looked radiant as she entered the church on the arm of her father to the strains of the Bridal March from Lohengrin. She wore white bridal satin with embroidered lace, fashioned with torso length waistline, high neckline and full embroidered skirt. Her long sleeves terminated in points over her wrists. She carried a lovely bouquet of Bettendorf roses, baby's breath and maidenhair fern.

Miss Helen Hick, sister of the bride, made a charming bridesmaid frocked in peach taffeta with torso length waistline, squared neckline and short sleeves. She carried a bouquet of Joanna Hill roses and blue scabiosa.

Mrs. Margaret Atkinson, cousin of the bride, was matron of honor, and was equally attractive in pale blue taffeta fashioned on the same line as that of the bridesmaid's. She carried a bouquet of Briarcliffe roses and white carnations.

Petite Judith Mott, Belleville, made a darling little flower girl as she gracefully made her way down the aisle. She was gowned in peach taffeta with ruffled neckline and carried a nosegay of sweet peas and baby breath with maiden hair fern.

Flight Lieutenant Howard Hewer, friend of the groom, was groomsman. Flight Lieutenants Thomas Duff and Wilfred Dobbin acted as ushers.

The groom's gift to his bride was a Sterling silver dresser set; to the groomsman a Sterling silver cigarette case; to the ushers, leather billfolds. The bride gave lovely strands of pearls to her bridesmaid and matron of honor, while little Judith received a lovely gold locket.

Following the ceremony a reception was held at the home of the bride's parents, in rooms prettily arranged with cut seasonal flowers. The bride's mother received with the bridal couple and chose a twilight mauve crepe frock with matching accessories and corsage of yellow roses.

Later the happy youthful couple left on a wedding trip to the summer resort at Rice Lake, with the bride wearing a grey and lime green ensemble with navy blue accessories. Upon their return they will reside at 125 Bridge Street West, Belleville.

Due to travelling conditions the groom's family was unable to be present but sent many telegrams bearing congratulations to the newlyweds.

Out-of-town guests present at the wedding were from Toronto, Kingston, Hamilton, Belleville, Napanee and places in U.S.A.—Con.

WELLS—ANDERSON

On Saturday, July 14th, in St. Andrew's United Church, Peterborough, Mildred Irene Anderson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James M. Anderson, Erskine Ave., Peterborough, became the bride of Orval Ray Wells, B.A., son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Wells, of Marmora. Rev. L. C. Ball, of Marmora, officiated, and the church was decorated with ferns and delphinium. R. B. Arle played the wedding music and accompanied Rev. Arthur Wells when he sang "The Voice That Breathed O'er Eden." before the ceremony and "O Perfect Love" during the signing of the register.

The bride wore a long gown of white satin and a floor-length veil held by orange blossoms. She carried red roses. Miss Janet Wilson, bridesmaid, was in pale blue sheer with white velvet flower cap and veil, and carried blue and pink flowers. The groom's brother, Ritchie Wells was groomsman.

A reception was held at the Y.M.C.A. after which Mr. and Mrs. Wells left for a honeymoon in Prince Edward County.

The groom is a brother of Messrs. Albert and Harold Wells, Stirling.

TO ESTABLISH RESEARCH LABORATORIES

The dairy industry of Ontario has undertaken to raise from its membership sufficient funds to complete and equip the research laboratories in the new Hospital for Sick Children, which hospital authorities estimate will cost approximately $200,000. This will form the industry's contribution to the Hospital's $6,000,000 building fund appeal, taking place in Ontario.

The announcement of the dairy industry's contribution to the new hospital was made today in a bulletin to
